Armament Sacrifice For Loan To Be Hitler Choice

By WALLACE CARROLL
British United Press. Exclusive Cable to The Edmonton Bulletin.

LONDON, July 21—Great Britain was reported in usually reliable sources tonight to be preparing a "positive peace plan" for submission to Adolf Hitler late this summer if the government's present policy fails to assure Europe's tranquility.

Reports of the contents of the "positive" plan—as contrasted to the "negative" policy of powerful armaments embodied in the European security front—are circulating in diplomatic sources but officials declined to comment on them.

One report was that Dr. Helmuth Wohltat, leading Nazi economic expert now in London, had received a suggestion of the plan from Sir Horace Wilson, close adviser to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, but Nazi sources discounted the report.

According to diplomatic sources, the plan which now is in a tentative stage eventually would envisage two points along the following lines:

1—Germany would be asked to sacrifice some of her armaments. Britain and her allies would require that guarantees be given that Nazi disarmament actually would be carried out.

2—Britain in return would obtain for Germany a huge loan which would enable Hitler to transform German industry from its present war basis to a peace basis. Wilson's conversation with Wohltat was rumored to have touched on that point.

Suspicion Rests On Overtures

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 21 — Great Britain's first reaction to Germany's pacific utterances over Danzig was one of scepticism and to regard them as part of Berlin's latest "peace offensive" which has been in progress for the last week or 10 days.

The general feeling around Whitehall was that Berlin's statement was a new invitation to Great Britain and France to apply pressure on the Poles to settle with the Germans over Danzig in the same way they influenced the Czechs last year.

It was stated officially that no approach had been made to the British government by Germany to get a settlement with the Poles and, so far as is known here, the Poles have not been approached either.

proposal, but Nazis denied that the two actually talked about a loan to Germany.

3—Further concessions to Germany such as granting colonial possessions to the Reich would be considered after reduction of Nazi armaments was underway.

Old Timers' Day at the Fair was celebrated in grand style Thursday by district pioneers, aided by thousands of other citizens—and The Bulletin's cameraman who was right there with them to make a pictorial record of the fourth day of the Fair. In No. 1 Ronnie Piggot, 3½ years, of Golden, B.C., makes friends with a lamb. No. 2 is a real feature shot—a picture of Dan Zegarchuk, of Winnipeg, who is $2,930 richer as a result of winning the daily double from Lou's Alley to Bell S. He had a $2 ticket on the nose of Bell S. as well. Sara Turka, with Elda Van Dussen on her shoulders, views the midway in No. 3. A fine figure has Gloria Hansen, one of the water artists in "Watercade," shown in No. 4. The above layout also contains a silver dollar prize. See the girl with the circle around her head? She was picked by the cameraman for his find-your-picture feature today, and if she'll report to The Bulletin's editorial offices and identify herself she'll be just one dollar richer. Persons whose pictures are circled must report to The Bulletin between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. (8 a.m. and 1 p.m. Saturday) to collect their prize-money. They must also identify themselves within 10 days after their pictures have appeared in order to be eligible for prizes.

Alaska Road Route Through Alberta Has Not Been Considered

VANCOUVER, July 21. — The Canadian section of the International British Columbia - Alaska Highway Commission has received no instructions to include consideration of an alternative route through northern Alberta to Alaska, Hon. Charles Stewart, commission chairman, said Thursday.

He made the statement in reply to a question by Howard Mitchell, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade which tendered a brief on the project to the commission.

"I have only heard of this matter by rumor," said Mr. Stewart. "I have asked the Dominion government for

Eastern Zones In Need of Rain: Alberta Gaining

WINNIPEG, July 21.—Thunderstorms brought joy to farmers in many sections of the prairie west today and relieved, somewhat, the dry conditions which have threatened western Canada's spring grain crop. Further rains can be expected, say meteorological experts. Cool weather prevailed in Alberta with rain throughout the province.

SASKATOON, July 21—Bringing new life to crops which have had to withstand blazing heat in the last 10 days, heavy showers fell in the Saskatoon district last night. The rain fell in torrents for 20 minutes, adding .91 inches to precipitation records here. It began to rain heavily again an hour later. Farmers agreed the prospects were the best in the last decade in this area.

WINNIPEG, July 21—Hot, dry weather is reported from practically all districts in the western grain growing area during the past week. In southern and central Saskatchewan rain is needed to prevent crop deterioration. Some points in Manitoba also report that the recent hot weather will tend to reduce grade and yield. Barley cutting has commenced on the Portage-Brandon division and it is expected that wheat cutting will start towards the end of this month.

Prospects in Alberta point to a bumper crop as, although hot, dry weather has also prevailed, very little damage of any kind is apparent, according to the weekly crop report of the department of agriculture, Canadian National Railways.

On the Portage-Brandon division of Manitoba, recent hot weather has advanced cutting about one week and it is expected wheat cutting will commence about August 1. More rain would be beneficial on the majority of subdivisions. Grasshoppers have caused damage at Holmfield and also reported at Beulah. Generally speaking, conditions remain very favorable over this division.

Prospects for a better-than-average crop are reported from the

Also guests of the association were approximately 100 underprivileged children who were marshalled to the Exhibition by W. E. Jewell, city juvenile officer.

Turnstiles started clicking early in the morning and a steady stream continued to enter the grounds throughout the morning. As the first race time approached there was a general influx to the track and attendance in the paddock was extremely good when the horses went to the post for the first race.

Thursday's attendance figures were not available at press time as the count had not been completed. Last year the attendance figures for Thursday were 23,076.

A sharp shower just before the horses left the paddock did not seem to stop the patrons who continued to pour into the grounds and to the racing oval.

JAIL AGITATORS CAUSE TROUBLE AT LETHBRIDGE

Disturbance at the Lethbridge jail on July 7 was caused without justification by a few agitators, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, declared Friday after studying a transcript of the evidence given at the investigation into the disturbance.

Mr. Fallow stated he had instructed Warden Blake of the jail to deal with the situation according to prison regulations, which make provision for punishing offenders against regulations. "There was no cause for this disturbance," Mr. Fallow said.

Mr. Fallow stated that he had no information as to the number of men who might be implicated as agitators. From other sources it was learned that probably three men will be involved.

Evidence showed that the prisoners are getting ample food, said Mr. Fallow. The prison doctor testified that generally speaking the men have left the prison in better physical shape than they entered. One man, who has been in 18 times, admitted he liked to get back to jail on account of the good food.

The disturbance started when a group of prisoners barricaded themselves in the mess room and complained of the food. They went back to their cells when R.C.M.P. officers appeared.

Once Led Wild Mobs In London, Now Leads Crusade Toward MRA

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—A British Labor representative told massed thousands here last night of leading "wild mobs" that "broke thousands of dollars of windows night after night" in London and of how a member of the social class he had "despised" had shown him the error of his leadership.

Bill Rowell, representing London's unemployed, spoke to an audience gathered to learn something about moral rearmament—a movement which has for its goal international peace and peace between employers and employees.

"Yes, it was I who organized the most powerful forces in England," he shouted. "It was I who led longer march after hunger march. It was I who led the wild mobs that broke thousands of dollars of windows night after night.

CAME TO HOUSE

"Then a man, a man whom I recognized as coming from the class of society I despised, came to my house. He was Miles Fillimore, son of a nobleman,

"He came to my house and said: 'I'm sorry I belong to the class which has been so largely responsible for the plight of your people. Now I want to do something for you.'

"That kind of talk I had never heard before. It startled me and I began to think things over. I saw that my leadership was wrong. I saw that I was helping class against class,

"I saw that the same thing was happening all over the world—Italian against nation, class against class, labor against capital—man against, man, brother against brother.

SLEPT IN CHAIR

"Miles Fillimore stayed at my house for two weeks. I couldn't even give him a bed. He slept in a chair. But he brought moral rearmament to me.

"I in turn imbedded it in the minds of my followers, and we practiced it. It spread like wildfire throughout the district until six months later it was absolutely in control of 47 boroughs on the outskirts of London.

"Parliament became interested and asked us to speak there. We did and that night 23 members of parliament dedicated the rest of their lives to moral rearmament.

Today Rowell and others with him go to Del Monte to attend the second world assembly for moral rearmament. Their goal is worldwide inculcation of:

Absolute honesty;
Absolute love;
Absolute purity;
Absolute unselfishness.

A convention of women's clubs adopted the word "homemaker" to replace "housewife."

membered in Alberta oil circles as the "No-Sell Herron."

In 1929 he refused to sell his holdings in Turner Valley oil companies despite bull markets at the time.

His faith in future of the field, 32 miles southwest of Calgary, in 1929 was no greater than in the early 1900's, a faith he developed shortly after moving from his home at Gelert, Ont., in 1901 to farm near Okotoks.

DISCOVERY OF GAS

In 1912 he and A. W. Dingman organized the Calgary Petroleum Products Company and a year later the "discovery well" blew in on Turner Valley acreage. It was the discovery of gas.

During the Great War years and early 1920's the oil exploration method down, but in the late 20's Mr. Herron again was a leading figure in Turner Valley activity.

Despite the depression of the early 30's, Mr. Herron "held on" to his interests, which had depreciated greatly, until the crude oil discovery in 1936 focused renewed activity in the field.

MINING INTERESTS

In late years, Mr. Herron acquired large interests in various mining concerns of British Columbia.

Mr. Herron was a member of a large Gelert, Ont., family, and following a brief education in Gelert schools he became a contractor and timberman in the Haileybury, Ont., district in 1896.

After coming to Alberta at the turn of the century and farming for about 10 years, he moved to Calgary to concentrate on oil exploration and development.

THE SURVIVORS

Surviving are Mrs. Herron, two sons, Harold Frederick and William S. Jr., of Calgary, and a daughter, Mrs. Laura E. Hopkins of Hollywood, Calif.; six brothers, Frank Herron, New Liskeard, Ont.; Stanley and P. W., of Toronto; W. B. of Los Angeles; Mathew Wilson, of Fort St. John, B.C., and Sam, New Liskeard, Ont.; and two sisters, Mrs. Percy Bissell of Toronto and Mrs. A. Clark of White River, Ont.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

particulars, but there has been no enlargement of the enquiry."

In its brief the Board of Trade argued advantages of routing the highway through British Columbia, stressing the fact a coastal route would permit economic servicing of the road through lower transportation costs to coast points such as Prince Rupert, Stewart, the Stikine River and Skagway, Alaska.

Mayor C. E. Scanlan of Kamloops, B.C., told the commissioners of the value of a route which would traverse lands of easily accessible lands of the central interior.

SHORTEST TO NORTH

Mayor Scanlon said the interior route was the shortest to the north; most economical of completion; offered freedom from traffic by a through system of alternate highways on both sides of the international boundary, and was close to rail and air communication points.

In addition to offering tourist attractions in fishing and hunting, the mayor contended light population and easy winters would make for easy maintenance the year round.

PHYSICAL FEATURES

He said physical features and climate of this route did not present the same difficulties as the western or coastal route outside the mountains.

The Canadian and United States members are scheduled to meet in Victoria next Monday to discuss their respective findings.

JAPAN'S FLEET ASSEMBLING IN NORTH WATERS

Possible Conflict With Russia Seen Over Sakhalin Island

TOKYO, July 21—A naval ministry source disclosed today that a section of the Japanese fleet was assembling in northern waters as a result of a Russian threat to confiscate Japanese oil and coal properties. The naval source declared that "our ships and men are ready."

Asked if Japan were likely to take armed action to prevent confiscation, he replied: "In my opinion that is possible. The situation is extremely grave."

On Monday Russia announced rejection of a Japanese proposal in ultimatum form regarding the rights of Japanese oil and coal concessionaires in Sakhalin Island, which is half Russian and half Japanese. It is off the Siberian coast.)

The government awaited word as to whether Soviet authorities had carried out a threat to confiscate the property at a midnight Thursday deadline.

At Moscow, Shigenori Togo, Japanese ambassador, was engaged in negotiations with S. A. Lozovsky, vice-commissar of foreign affairs, in a last minute effort to avert a clash.

MUD PUDDLE IS USED BY PILOT IN FREIGHTING

Alex. Dame, Yukon Southern Air Transport pilot, is making aviation history Friday and Saturday as he works on one of the strangest freighting jobs in the history of air transportation in western Canada.

He is flying about three tons of mining supplies and machinery from Kutze Inlet, about 100 miles south of Prince Rupert on the British Columbia coast, to an isolated mine in the interior. But there are no landing facilities at the mine. However, there is a muskeg beside it.

So miners have stirred up part of the muskeg to form a good mud puddle, and Alex. flies low over the puddle while his air engineer pushes the supplies out of the plane, bombing the puddle. The entire three tons of supplies will be delivered in this manner.

Friday morning the sky was clearing and a bright afternoon appeared in prospect for the afternoon. The midway was being cleared for a heavy rush from the crowds that have been held back early in the week by the uncertain weather.

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 21—Joseph Ohannesian, 43, has had his grave ready and an engraved tombstone erected since 1937, but he was disappointed yesterday when he did not die as he had predicted.

Weeks ago Ohannesian told cemetery caretakers he would die in another month on July 19. The former blacksmith believes he really "died" in 1937 when his health failed and he had to give up work.

Ohannesian has watered the grave dutifully until it now is the greenest in the vicinity. Sometimes he even sleeps on the grave.

Crop Prospect

Dauphin division. Grain is not suffering as yet from lack of moisture, but a good rainfall would be beneficial. Wheat is beginning to fill out with coarse grain 75 per cent in head. Cutting is expected to commence about the first week in August. Coarse grain is also good in various points but nearly all wheat sown on this division is rust-resistant, and therefore damage will be slight.

Rain is needed over practically the entire Regina division of Saskatchewan. Conditions around Weyburn, Carlyle, Lampman and Estevan are serious. Redville reports that 50 per cent of the wheat crop fields estimated at 40 bushels. While grasshoppers are numerous, little damage is apparent as yet. Coarse grain crops are deteriorating but no reports of damage from rust or hail have been received.

All grain are coming along well in the Calgary division of Alberta. Wheat stands average 30 inches and crop is generally good, large heads and heavy growth. No damage is reported and the present outlook indicates a bumper crop.

The Peace River territory received heavy rains which ensured moisture for the crop for the remainder of the season. Crops are in good condition and indications are for a good yield. Particularly in the Peace River subdivision precipitation greatly improved crops and prospects are now good.

Good Yield Expected In Peace River District

Due to recent heavy rains in the last few days, crops in the Peace River territory are now in good condition and a good yield is expected, according to the crop report of the Northern Alberta Railways for the week previous to July 19, released Thursday by J. M. MacArthur, general manager.

Weather in the northern part of the province is also favorable.

It is reported from Pouce Coupe that recent rains have supplied ample moisture for the crop of the district. Rain on Thursday three and three-quarters inches of rain have fallen and prospects are for a bumper crop. Hythe reports three and one-half inches of rain since last Saturday, also giving sufficient moisture for the rest of the crop year.

Beaverlodge reports more than three inches of rain. Wembley reports four inches and Sexsmith more than five inches.

At Grande Prairie, where more than three inches of rain fell, sufficient to harvest the crop, conditions have improved 100 per cent, of normal.

Reports all points in the Peace River district encouraging reports have been received, all indicating that crops generally have insured a good crop, providing no unforeseen set-backs occur.

Prospects For Alberta Crops Excellent, Report

WINNIPEG, July 21.—Western Canada can still harvest a wheat crop in excess of 400,000,000 bushels but good general rains are required to forestall further deterioration caused by present high temperatures according to a crop survey published by the Winnipeg Free Press Thursday.

It may be possible to obtain the second largest crop since 1928 when the western yield totalled more than 500,000,000 bushels but the unusually brilliant prospects of three weeks ago have been dimmed somewhat by heat and lack of normal rainfall, said the report. In 1932 the yield was 442,000,000.

REQUIRE RAIN

A correspondents' survey showed 41 per cent of all points reporting require rain immediately, 28 per cent need more precipitation within a week and 30.6 have sufficient moisture to carry the crop for a longer period than one week.

Prospects continue excellent in Alberta where the moisture situation is more satisfactory than in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Large areas in Saskatchewan, especially in the north and central districts, are well above average. Some 2,000,000 acres in the southeast corner of Saskatchewan are classed as poor while rainfall is required to maintain present prospects. Saskatchewan has more than 13,000,000 acres in wheat.

A large proportion of Manitoba's crop is regarded as fair but more moisture is required to prevent or check deterioration.

DEVELOPMENT QUICKENED

High temperatures have quickened development of the crop which is slightly behind last year, particularly in Alberta. Heading is completed in Manitoba, general in Saskatchewan and becoming general in Alberta. The stand, generally, is reported as satisfactory.

Whole drought has caused the most damage to date, grasshoppers have been responsible for some in all three provinces. Some hail losses are reported, particularly in Alberta, but in the aggregate the acreage is not large.

Foster Sentenced

CALGARY, July 21—John Foster, formerly of Buffalo, N.Y., who expects "never to come out of prison alive," today was sentenced by Magistrate D. C. Sinclair to police court to two years in Prince Albert penitentiary.

Pioneer Day

An unemployed Winnipeg painter, Dan Zegarchuk, found himself $2,929.70 for a four-dollar investment on Lan's Alice and Bell S. in the first and third races Thursday. He was the only punter at the track that coupled Bell S. with the winner of the third and scooped in the entire pool of $2,825.20. In addition he had two dollars on the second and S. to cop $104.50 for his two dollars.

Pari-mutuel play showed an increase of $376 on the basis of seven races over the corresponding period last year. The take for seven races Thursday totalled $49,331 against $52,700 for seven last year. The pari-mutuel play on the hurdle race last year was $3,415.

Weather which has been most unfavorable since the opening day seemed to take a turn for the better, and after the sharp shower just prior to the first race, a large crowd added to the comfort of the large crowd at the race track.

HAVE TERRIBLE DAY

Form players had a terrible day, only one favorite getting down in front, while lucky punters collected $28.30 across the board on Pagan Queen; $84.45 on Lan's Alice in the first; $26 on Pagan Cort for a six dollar combination bet; and $21.10 on Unrivaled in the fifth. The quinella paid $19.85, the horses figuring one two being Unrivaled and the odds-on favorite Baby Joe.

Only favorite to get out in front was Lee Somers to pay $5.55 on the nose bet. Jockey Williams, driving the owner, nearly brought off a double with Sir Barb who was narrowly beaten by Pagan Queen.

Jockey Johnson didn't hook the lion's share of riding honors, winning on Bell S in the third and on Unrivaled in the fifth, Bell S. paid $7.85 across the board. He also copped a peck of trouble, the stewards clapping a $25 fine for rough riding on Bell S and a further $25 penalty for a similar offence on Saturnino. He was also ordered to ride Bell S. for five days but will be permitted to ride out his engagements Friday.

From early morning until well after midnight patrons flocked to the midway to see the many wonderful shows on display and to ride in the Ferris wheel and rides owned by the Royal American Shows.

A large audience again patronized the grandstand attractions, "The Show of the Century," and voted the best entertainment ever brought to Edmonton for fair week.

JUDGING COMPLETED

Judging was completed in the Canary and Cage bird show with Mrs. E. J. Patterson carrying off the championship for the best bird in the show and also the reserve championship.

An interested spectator at the cattle judging rings Thursday was Kenneth MacGregor of Ada, Minn., grandson of the late Hon. J. D. McGregor, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. He takes particular interest in Aberdeen-Angus cattle and has a farm on his 1,500 acre farm in Minnesota.

Judging continued in the poultry, livestock and dairy cattle sections of the show and will be completed on Friday.

One of the greatest livestock parades in history swept past the grandstand on Thursday afternoon, it being estimated that approximately 5,000 people saw the $500,000 was on review. This parade was scheduled for Wednesday but was called off owing to Wednesday's weather.

WEST CANADA GERMANS TOLD RETURN HOME

Bund Leader Charges Campaign Of Anti-German Propaganda

WINNIPEG, July 21. — Hugo Schilling, district leader of the German bund at Loon Lake, Sask., last night declared that "every good German in western Canada, who can raise the fare, will go back to Germany unless the campaign of anti-German propaganda, now being carried on by Canadian newspapers, ceases."

Mr. Schilling passed through Winnipeg with a party of Germans who are returning to Germany. They left St. Walburg and Loon Lake areas of Saskatchewan, recently the scene of excitement by refugees from Czecho-Slovakia.

Hans Schilling, son of Hugo, said that because of the so-called "anti-German propaganda" in newspapers here his people had been treated as "outcasts."

BEING KICKED OUT

"We are Canadian citizens but we are being kicked out by propaganda," he said: "We settled the Loon Lake district and developed it from the time there were only two Indian trails until it became one of the best farming districts in that area. But as a result of the anti-German propaganda campaign which began two years ago, our fellow Canadians have been treating us as outcasts and as undesirable people. After my experience I would rather be a German citizen than a Canadian citizen."

He maintained a German baker in his district had been threatened with boycott unless he stopped attending bund meetings. Schilling added, however, that no pressure had been placed on his people to leave the country and that they were doing so at their own free will.

Schilling said the bund meetings were purely musical and social gatherings to maintain German culture.

Montreal Workers Protest Entrance Of Czech Labor

MONTREAL, July 21.—A resolution protesting "energetically" against the entry to Canada of 250 Czecho-Slovak technicians for the Bata shoe firm was adopted last night at a mass meeting of workers in the shoe-manufacturing industry here.

Raoul Trepanier, vice-president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, told the workers that projected establishment of a Canadian plant by the Czecho-Slovakian firm would increase unemployment.

The Bata company has taken an option on a site at Frankford, Ont., near Trenton, for a factory.

Gardiner Talks Wheat Marketing With Pool Aides

REGINA, July 21. — Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Federal minister of agriculture, Thursday discussed wheat marketing with officials of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool.

The Federal government, he said, would assist the pool in establishment of a voluntary pool to handle the balance of the 1939 crop over and above the 5,000 bushels per farm for which the Wheat Board's initial price of 70 cents a bushel is payable.

But the government is not committed to the principle that such a pool could utilize the services of the Wheat Board as a central selling agency, he said. Such a proposal would require consideration of the Dominion cabinet.

Body Of Man Found In Ditch Identified

CALGARY, July 21—Body of a man found in a ditch on the Bragg Creek road two miles west of Calgary late yesterday was identified last night as George Edward Thompson, 50, of no known address.

The body, apparently died from a bullet wound in the head and a rifle was found lying across his legs. Coroner G. R. Johnson of Calgary indicated there would be no inquest.

Saskatchewan Hit By Hopper Invasion

REGINA, July 21—Grasshoppers are invading Saskatchewan wheat fields along a front extending from Estevan to the Alberta border, said S. H. Vigor, field crops commissioner, Thursday.

Invading hordes have not yet reached the proportions of last year's flights, and there is hope held that harvest may come on before the hoppers get a chance to do serious damage to crops.

Aerial Search

MONTREAL, July 21—Grounded for more than a week by fog and rain, five search planes took off early this morning to hunt the northeastern Quebec region for a seaplane carrying six men which has been unreported since July 3, it was announced here today by an official of Dominion Skyways.

Cement Salesman Three Months to Proves 'Life of Party'

NEW YORK, July 21.—Warned by physicians that he would die of cancer within a few months, Claude Joseph Bradley, 53, a cement salesman, was the "life of the party" given for him by 200 friends at the Montauk Club.

Bradley himself said it was a gay and lively affair, "for a coming corpse," with jokes and tall stories, laughter and clinking glasses—and for more than an hour, Bradley played the piano.

At his table there was a vase of roses, and he picked one and put it in his lapel.

Bradley said physicians gave him only two or three months to live.

"But maybe they were wrong," he said. "Anyway, before they put roses on my chest, it's going to be a tough fight."

It was "a swell blowout," Bradley said, adding that if he accepted all the invitations for week-end and parties and trips he received at the party, he'd "have to live for 24 years."

WOMAN INJURED AS MARBLE-SIZE HAIL HITS HER

REGINA, July 21—Hail the size of marbles damaged crops and knocked a woman unconscious, it was reported Thursday from Tate district, 80 miles north of Regina. Mrs. A. Schouten was knocked unconscious as she was driving chickens to shelter. She was carried into her farm home by other members of the family who suffered bruises from hail.

A strip of fine wheat five miles wide and 17 miles long was pounded and badly damaged.

Another hailstorm Wednesday struck the Mutrie district, 80 miles southeast of Regina, causing heavy damage. Trees were stripped of leaves and window panes broken. Machine sheds and granaries were reported smashed by the cyclonic winds accompanying the storm.

NOTED ARTIST WINS ACCLAIM RECITAL HERE

Jacques Jolas Scores In Fine Program At Summer School

Famed alike for his virtuosity and his consummate capacity as a teacher, Jacques Jolas of the faculty of the Juilliard School of Music, New York, now conducting a special master class at the joint summer session of the department of education and University of Alberta, appeared in recital at Convocation Hall, U. of A. An enthusiastic audience greeted Mr. Jolas and accorded him a protracted, warm-hearted and spontaneous reception that must have been highly gratifying even to one accustomed to hear the plaudits of audiences ringing in his ears.

The program, well varied, difficult and at all times interesting, ran from the early days in music of Bach and Scarlatti to Ravel and in the music of all composers represented, the soloist proved himself an artist of towering stature.

MOSTLY CLASSICAL

The program consisted for the most part of classical works of a high order and these provided a severe test. Mr. Jolas surprisingly and convincingly proved himself the fortunate possessor of the qualities and attributes required to carry through successfully, such an important program.

Possessor of a tremendous technique, sufficiently commanding that mere technical obstacles need not be considered, he is enabled to devote himself unrestrictedly to contracting from the music, all of its finest qualities.

In his performance of the French Prelude, Choral and Fugue he reached his grandest, most sublime moments and gave a performance superlatively fine and one that must live long in the memories of all who heard it.

That he possesses special reverence for Ravel and Debussy was apparent, not only from his explanatory remarks on Ravel's Ondine and Debussy's Soiree en Grenade and Poissons d'or, but by the obvious regard and infinite attention to detail with which he played them.

POETICALLY PLAYED

These three pieces were poetically played. The dynamic graduation was minutely calculated and the rhythms were resilient as they needed to be. It was apparent at all times that his performances of these had been the subject of prolonged premeditation.

Also included on the program were the Bach-Liszt Fantasy and Fugue in G. Minor; Scarlatti's Two Sonatas; the Mozart Sonata in A Major and two Chopin Etudes and Ballade No. 4.

Mr. Jolas clearly demonstrated that he possesses the power to penetrate well beneath the surface of the mere notes and that suggestion in some cases is to be preferred to exaggeration. When pronounced virtuosity was required, it was there and whose delicately effective passages were called for, he showed that they were easily accessible.

In this season when good music is about as scarce as hen's teeth Mr. Jolas' recital was indeed, most welcome and refreshing.—J.O.

HOUSE RISES ON HILARIOUS NOTE THURSDAY

LONDON, July 21.—The House of Commons rose on a hilarious note Thursday after 17 hours of work on preparedness legislation.

Just before the end of the weary session, Brendan Bracken, Conservative, called attention to the fact that German legislators made about £200 (about $936) more a year than British members of parliament, and worked only one day a year. He asked whether there were any pension rights.

Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, retorted that he understood the Germans were more obedient to the government.

Members of the German Reichstag are called into session once or twice a year to hear government decisions.

The British M.P. gets a salary of £600 (about $2,800) annually.

Educator Asked To Attend Meet Indian Problems

Rev. J. F. Woodsworth, principal of the Indian Residential school north of Edmonton has been invited by the University of Toronto, Yale University and the Carnegie Foundation of New York to attend a conference on Indian problems from September 4 to 16 at University of Toronto.

The conference is said to be the first scientific one called to study Indians' affairs. Indians, educationalists, anthropologists and missionaries from the United States and Canada, totalling 75 will attend the sessions to be held at the Royal Ontario Museum. Mr. Woodsworth, principal of the school here for the past 27 years, will address the conference on problems of Indian education in Canada.

Strike Still On

Old Time Cannon Blast Demonstrated By Riel Rebellion Pioneer

By F. R. F. McKITRICK

"Boom went the old-time muzzle-loading cannon in front of the Old Timers' cabin at Exhibition grounds. As it lifted rearward, somersaulting some bystanders leaning against a wheel, as it kicked like all such old-fashioned muzzle-loaders are said to have kicked back when they were fired in battle actions, in days long ago.

When the boom sound ceased to echo, it was observed, in imagination only, how fatally the head had been knocked off the mechanical Cat, across the wide Avenue, Paris of the cat tractor littered over the farm machinery exhibit and the brigade bound next winter for Great Slave Lake may be minus one caterpillar, because George F. Beach a veteran infantryman of General Middleton's Brigade of Riel Rebellion Busters of 1885, had just demonstrated without any real black powder or shot or smoke how the old cannon was fired and used in the line of the Riel Rebellion.

This all started because some curious Old Timers, who are of the second generation, asked the Bulletin man how the old gun was fired.

A search was made among several men who were good guessers. Some wearing modern war buttons gave other explanations. But this veteran knew, because he saw it all happen while he was an infantryman though not a member of the crew actually serving these guns.

The kind of cannon he saw used, were larger and heavier, being nine pounders, he said; while he thought, this gun at the cabin was, perhaps, a five or a seven pounder. He actually saw these kind of cannon firing in action one day at Fish Creek and for four days at Batoche.

36 MEN, SIX HORSES

They were in a battery for each gun of 36 men and six horses to haul it around. At the end of each axle is a swivel ring to which the rope could be attached and a squad of infantry or a squadron of cavalry could help pull the gun, out of a mudhole across a creek, or up a hill or cutbank, to get it into a dominating spot to help win the battle. That cat across Abbot Avenue need not worry because the ammunition box was locked and somebody threw the key into the last river it forded. That "Boom" was only heard in imagination and not actually and the cat tractor may yet be used to amble down north across the Athabasca, past the Peace and over the newly cut out bush highway to Lakes of the Northland next winter.

But Mr. Beach did show how to sight the cannon at the cat's head and being metal may have more than the legendary nine cat's lives. Anyway, if they put some Turner Valley gasoline in that cat it might scratch its way across the avenue, and dodging the slow aiming tactics of the battery, bump or bowl over the cannon, or by busting its spoke, cripple it beyond repair. Of course, in real action, the crew of the battery carried rifles with which to defend their cannon in case the enemy closed in upon it.

VIVID RECOLLECTIONS

Mr. Beach is quite vivid in his recollection of the times of 1885. He was within range of guns at Fort Pitt, Fish Creek, Batoche, Prince Albert, up the river to Battleford, then back to Fort Pitt and up to Edmonton. Then down to Pitt again, out to Frog Lake where he helped bury the victims of the massacre, then along the Beaver river till Big Bear was captured by other scouts near Fort Carleton. He was busy helping in the cleaning up till late part of the fall, when he returned to Winnipeg.

"We never got any issue of clothes till we got to Swift Current, part of the soldiers of a practical talent, got hold of one of Major Bolton's helmets, bored a hole from front to back, and with his hand pushed a bullet through the hole. Then when he was wearing the helmet at the depot at Swift Current a group of curios said to him: "Did the bullet go through the helmet and miss hitting you?"

"Yes."

"I'll give you five dollars for that helmet." They swapped.

NEVER A PAY DAY

The soldiers never had a pay day, but when they disbanded they were paid off in full, at fifty cents per day, plus all expenses. When on the march, they slept in tents, on the ground, or on grass or under stars in the wind and rain.

The nine-pound guns were hauled by six horses, the smaller guns had four horses. Those who pulled on the ropes to help the horses move the guns to a favored spot to sight the enemy at closer range had their own interpretation of the phrase "tug of war."

Mr. Beach in detail with drawings described to a few Old Timers grouped close around the rear of the cannon wheels just how it was loaded and fired. He had never handled fired one for he was an infantry man, but he had seen the procedure often. The ramrod had a double end, for the bore of the cannon was first swabbed out, then the charge of powder in a cotton sack was rammed tight home.

The round cannon ball or the timed metal shell, containing shrapnel, was gently inserted and pushed into place next to the sack of powder. A tool like an ice pick was poked into the touchhole to pierce the sack and let the pressed powder rise up into the touch-hole till out enough to be ignited when desired by the gunner.

By shifting from side to side the heel of the brace of the cannon, it was given one aim and by turning a crank the cannon was aimed up or down according to the elevation to hit a distant target. When all was aimed on the spot desired, the fuse was lit and drawn across the mouth of the powdered hole to the touchhole. Picking up a string, calling it a fuse, Mr. Beach pinched it with his fingers to show how the fuse was cut at intervals to allow the fuse to spit fire at the nicks to ignite the charge when drawn over the exposed powder.

IN REAL ACTION

Instantly in real action the cannon would shoot. If aimed correctly the ball or shell would even go clean through a log house and come out the other side. If a shell was timed too late it would explode in rear of the house. Once he saw this occur. The shell was timed quite simply. There was no signaller to report the shot's effect on target aimed at. No telephone communication, no modern signal, or method of sending messages other than by scouts on horseback or on horseback.

One of the Old Battleford Scouts was once heard to describe an all night and all day ride he once made with an SCS call to Swift Current for urgent aid for help, or orders to evacuate the town and barracks of Battleford.

He related how he rode till his horse was tired out and hungry. It was dark so he rode along a ridge edge. In plain sight he made a loop like a whip lash and curved back close near to his former trail, and then let his horse feed, leaving its saddle on and and tieing the tether to his wrist, so if he fell asleep himself his own horse would waken him.

INDIAN FOLLOWS

He fell asleep but felt a tug on his wrist, and in the starlight saw the stars eclipsed by a following Indian riding along the ridge as he slowly tracked his trail in the starlight. He wisely muzzled his horse with his jacket and hence prevented its whinny giving his life away. Then as danger neared he mounted and quickly but noiselessly, sped away direct towards Swift Current, while the tracker trailed his trail slowly in the starlight.

Later after the rebellion Mr. Beach said he was helping to build the telephone line from Vancouver to Chilliwack, replacing the old telegraph line. How thrilled the old operator was when he took a regret at death of his telegraph was changed to smiles as he heard the real voice of his recognized pal at the other end of the line ask and answer questions. What a vast start it would be had they seen and heard and spoken together without wires as is possible now with two-way radio or television.

After checking to see for sure that the Great Slave Lake Caterpillar was unharmed by the imagined "boom shot" of the cannon, a radio call describing the live attack parade led us into the view of the exhibit of prize winning herds of live stock all of which would have been impossible if these cannon used at Batoche had failed to lead up to the final surrender sometime of Big Bear.

INDIAN DEPARTMENT

This year's exhibition would have been impossible had the Redmen of the Red Race of First Canadians failed to be on hand and hence one led to wonder what has happened. So it was only another step into the hall where is exhibited the result of the work of the Canadian Indian department. It is a very interesting and a real revelation, in how the Redmen really did not lose in the end.

Of course it is interesting to see the old style Calumet or Peace Pipe with its two pipes into each of which the former warriors placed tobacco, characters and also in council circle in turn smoked the puffs coming from both bowls. Just so both Red and White have really gained by the way things have turned out. A tell-tale exhibit of the red-skinned students, all Indians or of Indian blood, from Fort Vermilion on the River of Peace, is inscribed on a perfect piece of linen or buckskin in four languages the slogan emblematic of the true spirit of all western Canada, its head work or embroidery:

In French: "Suis Laborieux comme le Castor."

In English: "Work like the Beaver."

And in unprintable characters on local linotypes, the same slogan in the Cree Syllabic characters and also in the characters used by the Beaver Indians, the tribes near the Great Slave Lake.

Other items in the Indian exhibit include relics of old time life of the Red Race of First Canadians as well as some excellent mechanical and artistic and literary and technically trained talents of the modern child of the redman of Western Canada. Of course the ancient tribal heroes wore headdresses of sacred feathers though to have magic power, or as in story told by totems or signs drawn on bark or worked out with beads or quills of porcupine. Of course the natives had many talents and training in their wild environment that coupled with the whiteman's science and inventive genius could even yet create they perhaps enable the Canadian Beaver boys and girls of all colors of skin of the future years in Western Canada to achieve exceeding great skill and blessing from the result of shots of cannon such as this at the front of the Old Timers' cabin, which helped win the battle of Batoche, for the final enduring good of all people red and white in all Canada.

VANCOUVER ALL EXCITED OVER METEOR FALL

Ball Of Fire Which Dropped From Sky Plainly Visible

VANCOUVER, July 21.—Hundreds of excited Vancouverites stuck today to their story a meteor landed just north of the harbor last night, but a visiting California astronomer suggested it might have landed many miles away.

Those who saw the "ball of fire" which dropped from the sky just at dusk yesterday were unanimous in the belief it hit the earth either on Grouse Mountain or one of the other peaks which rise from the north shore of the harbor.

Dr. R. L. Duncombe, of the staff of the University of California at Los Angeles—here to lecture in astronomy at the University of British Columbia's summer session—agreed their belief might be correct.

LANDED IN FAR NORTH

But referring to reports the Vancouver meteor had been seen in such widely separated points as Seattle, Victoria, and Williams Lake, B.C., 200 miles northeast of here, he said it might actually have landed "in the far north."

So convinced were some residents that the meteor landed on the North Shore however, that a party of four youths from a forestry training camp on Grouse Mountain were sent out last night to look for it. They walked more than five miles through the mountains returning two hours later to report no success in their search.

CONTINUE SEARCH

Mrs. Susan Williams, manager of Grouse Mountain Chalet, said she plans to ask that a larger party be sent out today to continue the search.

The meteor seen here was the third major one reported on the Pacific coast in the space of a month. One of the others was seen over Portland, Ore., several weeks ago, and more recently one fell in south-western Ontario where several fragments were found.

The meteor last night appeared so close to the city that many who saw the flaming mass drop earthward believed it might have been an airplane falling in flames. However, later developments discounted this belief, and all Vancouver plans were reported safely in their hangars.

SMALLER STONE

While the North Vancouver search was going on, a Dominion government wireless operator reported he had seen a smaller stone drop into field of oats at Brighouse, B.C., settlement eight miles south of here near the mouth of the Fraser river.

The operator, who declined to give his name, said the stone was about the size of a baseball and was "travelling very slowly" when it struck. He said it had a tail about one foot long.

The operator, "because I did not want to damage the oats," did not investigate.

DECREASE IN NUMBER WAR PENSIONS PAID

OTTAWA, July 21.—At the end of June, 97,959 war pension cheques were distributed, involving an annual outlay of $40,177,570. This was a decrease of 65 pensions and of $228,847 from the same date a year ago, Hon. C. G. Power, minister of pensions announced Thursday.

Disability pensions numbered 90,183, compared with 90,248 a year ago, and dependents 17,776 against 18,004.

The largest number of pensioners reside in Ontario. The financial liability to the 33,600 veterans and dependents in that province is $13,-020,779.

There are 12,863 pensions in British Columbia, compared with 12,501 for June, 1938. The annual pension payments involve $5,421,080, against $5,277,027.

Number of pensioners and amounts in other western provinces with last year's figures in brackets follow: Manitoba, 9,544 (9,562), $3,253,039 ($3,221,317); Saskatchewan, 4,629, (4,734), $1,724,600, ($1,782,683); Alberta, 6,498, (6,545), $2,476,907, ($2,520,194).

Federal Official Returns To City From North Tour

R. A. Gibson, deputy commissioner of the Northwest Territories and director of lands, mines and forestry branch of the department of mines, returned Friday morning from an air survey of developments in the northern area he has been on since May 8.

He saw Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister without portfolio, on his return, and also Members of Parliament in the northern areas, and also planned to see L. E. Drummond, secretary-manager of the Alberta and North West Chamber of Mines. He planned to visit Elk Island Park later in the day.

Mr. Gibson said mining conditions in the north, and affairs there generally, looked "extremely encouraging." He leaves Friday night for Ottawa.

Football Ace Hurt

OAKLAND, Calif., July 21—Fred Anderson, ace passer and line plunger slated to be U. of California's fullback next fall, may never play football again. His right ankle was crushed by an 1,800-pound heat interchanger he was helping unload for an oil company.

G. R. F. Kirkpatrick Came To City 50 Years Ago

On July 22, 1889, there came in this province a young man charged with the responsibility of opening the first bank in Edmonton. That young man, now retired, honored by his bank colleagues and revered by his business associates, is G. R. F. Kirkpatrick, who on Saturday will celebrate the 50th anniversary of his arrival here.

Travelling from Brandon, where he was a clerk in the Imperial Bank, Mr. Kirkpatrick went to Calgary and then came on the second train to leave Calgary for Edmonton over the C. & E. Railway.

He came here in 1891 and opened the Edmonton branch of the Imperial Bank, the first between Calgary and the Arctic, and for 45 years he remained its manager, the longest term any official of the bank ever served at one point. He retired from the managership of the bank in 1936.

STAYED WITH FACTOR

Mr. Kirkpatrick spent his first night in Edmonton at the factor's house in the old Hudson's Bay Company fort, which stood on the grounds now occupied by the legislative buildings.

Harrison Young was then factor and on Wednesday at the Edmonton and Northern Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers' Association cabin at the fair grounds, Mr. Kirkpatrick renewed his friendship with Mrs. Young.

Educatd at Upper Canada College he joined the staff of the North West Territories Treasury branch in Toronto in 1884 and two years later he started with the Imperial bank. In 1888 he was moved to Winnipeg and in 1889 to Brandon. In the same year he was moved to Calgary and has resided in the province ever since.

The year after he came here, he was appointed to the council and held that post until 1900. He held the first tax sale ever held here.

He was president of the board of trade in 1906 and is the oldest surviving past president.

BRIDGE BUILDER

He was a member of the delegation which went to Ottawa in 1903 to urge the Dominion government to build the low level bridge.

Mr. Kirkpatrick was the first man to receive the 50-year mark in service of his bank.

Among the many posts which he still holds, even though retired from active bank service are: chairman of the University hospital board of governors; director Edmonton Cemetery Company; honorary chairman Edmonton Clearing House Association; director Yukon Gold Co., Ltd.; director Dawson Coals, Ltd. and Lussar Coals, Ltd.; member Edmonton Sinking Fund Board; member Edmonton Public School board; member, advisory board, Royal Trust Co., Ltd.; member Northern Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers' Association; president R. L. Greene and Kirkpatrick, Ltd.

Attorney General Murphy Strikes New Blow at WPA Protest Walkouts

WASHINGTON, July 21—Attorney General Frank Murphy struck a new administration blow at the works progress administration protest walkouts Thursday by asserting that to tolerate strikes against the United States government would build up a "Fascist psychology" and might be "the beginning of the end."

Murphy's stand against the relief workers' walkouts was taken at a press conference while thousands of W.P.A. employees were participating in a one-day work stoppage and demonstrations sponsored by the Workers' Alliance, union of the unemployed.

Other W.P.A. developments included:

Colonel F. C. Harrington, relief commissioner, disclosed he had asked the justice department for a ruling on the question whether the "prevailing wage" could be paid on W.P.A. projects started before the new relief act became effective July 1.

W.P.A. officials said they considered the strike over.

Workers' Alliance officials emphasized that Thursday's demonstrations were not a strike, merely a protest against the new W.P.A. regulations which require many W.P.A. employees to work longer hours—130 a month—for the same wage they received for less work under the regulations in effect prior to July 1.

Anti-Knock Fluid Is Sold Only to Refiners Licensed by Ethyl Corp.

CALGARY, July 21—Anti-knock fluid, containing tetra-ethyl lead, is sold only to refiners licensed by the Ethyl Corporation of America, stated H. W. Kayley, of New York, at the McGillivray Royal Commission Thursday.

Mr. Kayley, general sales manager of the Ethyl Corporation, said the corporation licensed refiners in order to control use of the product and make certain that safety measures, approved by the surgeon general of the United States are enforced.

Since the Ethyl Corporation enforced safety regulations there had been no more "accidents" from lead poisoning, the witness continued.

No refiner in Alberta had been refused a license for the ethyl fluid used to raise the octane rating of standard gasoline, said Mr. Kayley, and there were no monopolies in use of the anti-knock fluid although for a short period in 1929 Imperial had an exclusive license in Canada.

The commission, for the first time was shown moving pictures by Mr. Kayley, that were designed to show greater efficiency attained in an automobile engine by use of gasoline containing ethyl or "Q" fluid.

The witness declared his company exercised no control over the price charged for Ethyl gasoline and as a result the price varied in cities throughout North America.

WORKERS' GROUP PLANS COURSES WINTER SEASON

The Workers' Educational Association is again making plans for the coming winter's work. Seven courses are at present planned for and additional courses will be offered if there is sufficient demand. These courses are given by competent tutors who have made special studies of their subjects.

A course in co-operation will be given and the following topics will be dealt with:

Is co-operation a revolutionary movement? Is there a conflict of interest between the producer and the consumer? Are co-operatives an adequate answer to industrial monopolies? What can the consumer do about modern advertising, to get the truth and his money's worth?

In addition to its discussion of consumer's and producers' co-operatives, the course will give special attention to the aims and methods of credit unions, about which there is so much current interest both in Alberta and other parts of Canada.

Those interested in any of these classes should consult the secretary, J. L. Kergan, 11717 89A street.

A law forbids German cyclists to ride two abreast in busy streets and makes riding with only one hand on the handlebars a punishable offense.

SAFETY COUNCIL WARNS AGAINST DRIVING DANGER

Supported by the Edmonton service clubs, the Edmonton Safety Council is making a plea for more careful automobile driving in their booth in the Manufacturers' building at the fair this year.

The Council, supported by Cosmopolitan, Kiwanis, Gyro, Lions and Kinsmen clubs, city police, Alberta Motor Association and Chamber of Commerce and the Federation of Community Leagues, has on display the wrecked car driven from an accident on the Edmonton-Calgary highway some ten days ago, as a vivid reminder that drivers can and do have accidents unless they are careful.

Heart Attack Fatal

Suffering a heart seizure, Robert Swan, 77, of 10022 94 street collapsed and died in a downtown hotel about 9.50 p.m. Thursday. Dr. E. A. Braithwaite, provincial coroner, stated that death was due to natural causes and that no inquest will be necessary. Howard and McBride are arranging funeral details.

He is survived by his step-son, James McNeil, a grandson and two granddaughters, all of Edmonton, and a brother and sister in Scotland. He came to Edmonton from Scotland in 1914.

EDMONTON DOG IS CHAMPION IN NON-SPORT CLASS

An Edmonton Dalmatian walked off with the non-sporting dog open championship this year at the Exhibition. He is "Count de Marzer-Roff," owned by Mrs. Allan Ayerst of the city, and was imported from England last Christmas. The "Count" has a fine record for the show, winning first in the open, first in the limit class, best of winners, best of breed and best of non-sporting dogs.

"Donna Dalradia", a year-old Irish Terrier, the property of H. H. Allan, won in the terrier group, after being shown in Winnipeg. Regina and Toronto with Mrs. M. D. Gardiner's Sealyham running a close second.

"Middian Sonojo", a Cocker, owned by Mrs. M. F. Pickford, of Burnaby, B.C., won in the sporting group, after being judged best of breed in Vancouver last fall, and running second in best of show to a Kerry-Blue, owned by Mrs. Marguerite Fox. "Sonojo" also has to his credit the title of best of winners in the Bulletin show last fall, out of nearly 800 dogs.

An English Bulldog, "Springbank Sonny", owned by Andy Hall of this city, had to yield to himself, as the only entry in his class.

Ratepayers Will Discuss Mining In Beverly Area

BEVERLY, July 21.—A meeting of the electors of Beverly has been called for Thursday, July 27, to discuss the alleged mining of coal under the Beverly school grounds. Officials of the Brush Mines Co. are absent on holidays and are not expected back before August, but inquiries made at both the Brush Mines' Beverly office and the government mines branch revealed that no coal has been removed from under the school or grounds.

The nearest approach, according to the engineer, L. Stevens, is at least 40 feet from any school property. Company officials have repeatedly assured ratepayers that the company had no intention of jeopardizing the school by the removal of coal.

Records show that Oregon and Washington receive the largest annual amount of precipitation in the United States.

Time to Do Something

President Roosevelt is inviting members of the international committee to hold a conference in Washington on the subject of placing the refugees who are being driven out of Germany and other Nazi dominated territory. Like the other international committee that immortalized itself in Spain, the refugee committee seems to have been resting from its labors in advance. It is time it did something to justify its existence and vindicate the good faith of the governments it represents.

Not many weeks ago the world was ringing with denunciations of Chancellor Hitler and his associates because, having robbed great numbers of people by confiscatory levies, they would neither let the victims earn a living in Germany nor let them leave the country. They have evidently relented in the latter respect; and now the exiles have no place to go. Four ships loaded with refugees have been cruising around the Mediterranean, seeking a place where these might land, and seeking in vain.

The criticism that was formerly directed at the Nazis may now with justice be turned upon the countries whence it came. These apparently do not know what to do with the people for whose emigration they pled and protested. The committee should get to business; and either arrange for a distribution of the exiles, or tell the Fuehrer plainly that other countries cannot relieve him of the human encumbrances he does not want.

Saying It With Dollars

The International Institute of Agriculture at Rome estimates this year's world wheat crop as somewhat smaller than that of last year, but not enough smaller to materially affect the prospect of a huge surplus over the demand. As a natural but regrettable reaction, the favorable western crop reports published last week resulted in a drop in price to the lowest level reached in six years.

One immediate conclusion is that the Government of Canada stands to lose a lot of money through having guaranteed an initial price of 70 cents per bushel. Unless weather conditions or war or some other incalculable factor operates before winter to send world prices upward. Barring that possibility, last year's loss of $25,000,000 may look smaller than it now does when the end of the new trading year has been reached.

One redeeming fact is that the loss, whatever it may be, will fall upon the whole taxpaying body of the nation, not upon the growers or the minority who live in the part of the Dominion where the bulk of the wheat is grown. Canadian unity is not always vocal, but in this matter of supporting the wheat-grower and saving western business from collapse it is functioning in a practical and effective way. Even Premier Hepburn has not denounced the 70 cent initial price as a sop thrown to the west at the expense of the east, which he did last year in respect to the "pegged" price.

Not at All Excited

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons, "We certainly have not got an agreement yet," with Russia. The wording is significant, frankly so. Britain and France are the parties who are trying to get an agreement—as last September Russia was angling for their aid in blocking the vivisection of Czechoslovakia. Russia is now holding off, as the others then did.

The reason cannot be the same. Britain and France were not then prepared to make a grand frontal attack on Germany, which was the only way they could have acted effectively. But the Russian authorities have boasted their readiness for war for many years.

The stickler, so far as the world knows, is the Russian demand that Latvia, Esthonia and Finland be named as countries under the protection of the anti-aggression powers. But these countries do not want to be taken into the pact. They object to an arrangement that might result in Russian troops being sent into their territory; on the ground that the troops which came to protect might remain to conquer, for which suspicion there is plenty of historic precedent.

Whether this demand is based on strategic grounds or is only a talking point for delay, the quite apparent fact is that Stalin is not taking Hitler seriously. Which is in measure reassuring, since Moscow is fairly likely to know what are the real intentions at Berlin. One dictator should be able to "size up" another.

A Peace-Time War Policy

Congress has decided it will not amend the United States' neutrality law at the present session—despite the battle President Roosevelt has made for immediate amendment. Perhaps, Congress being in "rebellious" mood, that is one reason it refuses to act. Be that as it may; outsiders have no right to stress the inference.

The effect is that should the aggressor states force war upon the democracies before Congress meets again, neither side will be able to draw upon United States manufacturing and other sources for armament or certain specified kinds of war supplies.

Under the amendment desired by the President, any belligerent would be entitled to purchase supplies on condition that delivery was taken at a United States port. In practice this would mean that Britain and France could get supplies, having command of the sea routes, while Germany and Italy could not—unless their transports could dodge the enemy cruisers.

Since Germany and Italy are more completely armed than Britain and France, the decision to maintain the embargo is an advantage to the aggressors. A year ago this advantage would have strengthened the probability of war, as the predatory states then held a tremendous margin of armament over the democracies. This margin has been cut down in the meantime, to a point that robs them of any certainty of winning even with United States sources of supply closed to Britain and France.

Nor can Rome and Berlin forget that, should they launch war, Congress can meet again and lift the embargo in short order. Which, with due respect to any political considerations which may be involved, is precisely what Congress would be likely to do.

Editorial Notes

The statisticians of the League of Nations send out the cheering information that Canada led the nations during April and May in the increase of exports, with a gain for the two months of 22½ per cent. The reciprocity agreement with the United States—and the automatic adjustments in our trade relations with a large number of other countries—is doing what it was designed to do.

British Columbia mines, it is said, have produced minerals valued at more than a billion and a half dollars during the last seventy-five years, distributing dividends of more than $150,000,000, or about $2,500,000 a year on the average. The figures suggest what Alberta's coal resources, gas resources, oil resources, plus the dividends and trade profits collected on mining operations beyond the northern boundary will be worth to the people of this province over a long range.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Argentina has decided to undertake an immediate and thorough investigation of Nazi and Fascist penetration in that country. The courts recently acquitted Alfredo Muller, the so-called "Little Fuehrer" of Argentina from charges made by a newspaper, of planning the conquest of Patagonia. It looks as if Nazi propaganda activities have over-reached themselves in the South American republic, with Germany supplying a free telegraphic service to the newspapers, and Nazi organizations stirring up anti-Semitic feeling.

CUTTING OFF BEER SUPPLIES

New Jersey has hit the German cause in a tender spot. A law was recently passed there, prohibiting flags and uniforms and practices based on those of foreign armies. The German Bund challenged this by organizing a parade of members and Storm Troopers, carrying a flag that varies from but bears a resemblance to the swastika flag.

Instead of arguing about uniforms and flags, the New Jersey authorities merely cancelled the liquor licenses of the German Bunds in that State. That's hitting them below the waterline.

Non-military protests, tinged with humor, are often more effective than threats. The Times, just over a century ago, reported a meeting of Chartists near Devizes. One passionate chap nearly carried the meeting with a resolution that every Chartist should have a gun hung up in his kitchen. Some fellow with stolid good sense moved an amendment to omit the word "gun" and substitute in its place the words "a flitch of bacon." The Czech people living in the town of Bruuen made a protest last week against the loss of communal rights. They decided to walk instead of using the civic street cars. In three days they caused the street car receipts to drop 75 per cent. The strike succeeded.

A PROTEST THAT WON

Sometimes the Nazis win. They won the other day when they tore down the statue erected at Budweis—where the Budweiser used to flow—in honor of Thomas Garrique Masaryk, Czech national hero and first president of Czecho-Slovakia. Husky Nazis with hammers broke the arms off the statue and hacked away at its face. It afforded an outlet for their instinctive emotions. Meanest of all victories thus far is contained in a despatch telling how little Kurt Schuschnigg Jr., 13-year-old son of the former Austrian Chancellor, has been made to join the Nazi movement.

TWO VICTORIES BY THE NAZIS

The child's father is still a prisoner of the Gestapo, subjected to refinements of cruelty. Can any be more refined than this? Even if a gesture of appeasement by the broken-spirited father, it is none the less pitiful beyond words.

In New York, a job on the police force is much desired by many. About 20,000 able-bodied men applied for jobs when vacancies occurred for about 2,000 recruits. Some people will sniff at this and smell a desire for police graft. More likely the attraction in these days is to land a job that will be permanent during good behavior, pay a reasonable living wage, offer special conditions for advancement and pay an ample pension at the end, before a man is too tired out to enjoy life.

A POLICEMAN'S LOT, ETCETERA

If I had a boy in these uncertain times when the labor market is overcrowded and men are junked and thrown on the scrap heap long before the miserly $20 a month old age pension becomes effective, I'd advise him to enter the civil service, the employ of one of the banks or the railways or other big institution that pays a fair living wage, offers opportunity for advancement and assures a pension at the end. If he had the sort of spirit that would make him refuse these "safety-first" inducements, he'd have a good fighting chance to win out on his own.

To winnow down the 20,000, mental examinations were given all aspirants. Only 3,800 survived the stiff educational tests. These are now being given athletic tests. They must run a mile under seven minutes to get the passing mark of 70. Those who can cover the distance in 5½ minutes or less get 100 marks. To pass in "agility and co-ordination" they had to scale ladders, jump hurdles, climb an 8-foot fence, make a 10-foot broad jump, traverse a horizontal ladder hand over hand, lift weights of 70 lbs. and dummies of 170 pounds. The men had to rise from a prone to a sitting position while carrying a bar weighing from 20 lbs. to 40 lbs. behind their necks.

All of them are certified in first class medical condition. Hasn't life come to a crisis when a man has to do all this to get a job as a policeman!

Religion Day By Day

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

HE CHANGES NOT

My mother used to speak of the "moods and tenses" of life. We have not learned to say, with the Psalmist, "My heart is fixed." Some of the most sensitive saints have been profoundly subject to these ups and downs of feeling. Because we have met some discouragement—or perhaps because we have indigestion—we feel that God has abdicated his throne and that everything is wrong with the world.

George Macdonald wrote a heartening passage. "That man is perfect in faith who can come to God in the utter dearth of his feelings and his desires, without a glow or an aspiration, with the weight of low thoughts, failures, neglects and wandering forgetfulness, and say to him, Thou art my refuge, because Thou art my home."

Whatever the weather of our spirits, may we never forget that the Sun of Righteousness is still shining. Even amidst surest trials, do Thou, O Constant One, increase our faith. Amen.

Read John 14:1-14.

Current Comment

Canada's Business Trend

Business barometers of the first half of 1939 indicate a 23 per cent improvement over the corresponding period of 1938.

Lumber and nickel exports for May, 1939, show 29 to 35 per cent over May, 1938.

Copper exports and carloadings up 10 to 13 per cent.

United States markets taking a lot of Canadian cattle, shipments showing 300 per cent increase as compared with corresponding period last year.

Output of Canadian gold in the first four months of 1939 valued at $57,000,000, a gain of 12 per cent over corresponding 1938 period.

Eighty mills now producing gold in Canada and a dozen more planned.

Manufacturing operating on a higher level than a year ago, particularly in footwear and foodstuffs, including flour and sugar.

Motorcar production down 9 per cent from last year but picking up at end of first five months of 1939.

Bank debits, commercial loans and deposits in a rising trend.

The World Wheat Situation

World wheat supplies for the crop year now drawing to a close exceeded 5,000 million bushels for the first time in history. The 1938 crops were exceptionally bountiful, latest estimates placing the total outturn (excluding Russia) at 4,479 million bushels or approximately 440 million bushels larger than the record harvests of 1928-29. Stocks carried over were substantial —601 million bushels—exports from Soviet Russia are placed at 40 million bushels, making the total available for consumption no less than 5,120 million bushels. World shipments have been more encouraging and the year's disappearance is expected to be exceptionally large due to increased absorption in low-price outlets. But with total disappearance reaching the estimate of 3,975 million bushels, there will still remain 1,145 million bushels to be carried over into the 1939-40 season. This is only 40 million bushels less than the record stocks of 1934.

World shipments for the 1938-39 season are placed at 585 million bushels, the second largest since 1932-33, when the total reached 630 million bushels. Actual quantities shipped during the intervening years were as follows:

|---|---|---|
| Crop year | 1933-34 — | 555 million bushels |
| " " | 1934-35 — | 542 " " |
| " " | 1935-36 — | 526 " " |
| " " | 1936-37 — | 607 " " |
| " " | 1937-38 — | 553 " " |

In spite of the improvement shown since 1935-36, import markets are still comparatively unreceptive and the disposition of supplies continues to present a major problem to the four leading producers for export—Canada, the United States, Argentina and Australia.

In 1938, Canada harvested 350 million bushels of wheat. The carry-over had been reduced to 23 million bushels so that supplies for the year aggregated 373 million bushels. With home requirements of about 100 million bushels, 273 million remained available for export and carry-over, a total which would have presented no difficulty had normal conditions prevailed in world markets. But conditions were not normal—supplies were heavy and resistance to imports was maintained through subsidies, tariff restrictions and import quotas in many markets which had in the past absorbed substantial quantities of Canadian wheat. Shipments from August 1, 1938, to June 9, 1939, comprised 138 million bushels, with the total for the year placed at about 150 million, leaving the carry-over 100 million bushels larger than on July 31, 1938. The acreage sown for the 1939 crop was about the same as in the previous year, moisture conditions are reported more favorable and should no serious set-back be encountered a substantial crop may be anticipated.—Monthly Letter, Royal Bank of Canada.

On This Date

By FRED WILLIAMS

From July 20 to July 28, 1915, Mr. Robert Borden was in France visiting war hospitals (in addition to the 52 he had inspected in Great Britain), and then proceeded to the front, where he saw the Canadians in action. On his way up and down the line he inspected many Canadian regiments, composed of young men transformed in less than a year from peaceful civilians in far-off Canada into as fine fighting men as any country could produce. The prime minister expressed his appreciation of the services of the men who had already been under fire and commended the enthusiasm of those who had yet to face that ordeal.

It was a week filled with thrilling incidents, with the horrors of war present on every side, with organization of new plans, necessitated by the experience of war; but it was a week which convinced the Canadian prime minister that the war was going to be a long one and that when he returned to Canada he would have to so tell the people that they must tighten their belts and be prepared for a bitter struggle.

This visit, the first paid by Mr. Borden, was followed by others two years later. All of them were of great value in enabling him to tell parliament, from first hand knowledge, of conditions at the front and in the hospitals.

Sunshine Shafts

A teacher asked a little Scottish boy what was meant by "bearing false witness." The boy replied: "It's when nabbody does naethin', an' some ither body gangs and tells o't."

A certain sporting gentleman was not too friendly with the medical men in his village, and he never failed, when opportunity arose, to poke fun at their expense.

One day he was walking down the village street with a friend when he passed the house where two doctors lived. On the gate was a brass plate giving the names of the physician and the surgeon.

Turning to his friend, the squire remarked: "You know, this plate puts me in mind of a double-barrelled gun. If one misses, the other is sure to kill."

Individual and Society

Editor, Bulletin: I was astonished to read in the Vancouver Sun an editorial headed, "Aberhart Joins Herridge," in which this statement was made: "Social Credit, however its promoters may try to have their cake and eat it, would finally mean a dominant all-embracing state of replacing the individual as the main force in society."

I am sure the editor of that paper desires to present the facts so therefore can only credit such a statement to gross ignorance of what Social Credit does stand for.

Social Credit is opposed to government interference in business even to the extent we have it today; it is opposed to the destruction of goods or poisoning of non-production. Social Credit is in favor of distributing purchasing power, composed of new issue of money, not borrowed and not to be collected in taxation, to the people of Canada to an amount equal to our surplus of production over our financial ability to consume goods. In short, Social Creditors believe that the people of Canada should have a financial system that will allow them to consume all the goods they are physically able to produce and that without government interference in business so that the individual will be the main force in society.

Moral For Canada

Editor, Bulletin: I think there is a moral for Canada in the struggle now being waged by President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull to have the foreign policy of the United States given clear and emphatic definition. As the president has said, the distress of Europe may issue in a major political catastrophe at any moment, and it is unworthy of a great state to have to improvise, in the hour of crisis, the policy it has not been able to formulate in the quiet days of peace.

What are we doing in Canada? The answer, disturbing but true, is that we are doing nothing to define our policy. The prime minister tells us that parliament will decide what we will do if England is engaged in war. And he will not have their cake and eat it, would finally mean a dominant all-embracing state of replacing the individual as the main force in society." declaration recorded until war hysteria, war passion, are already running riot over the dominion. Let us imitate the policy of the United States, and have the great foreign policy debate before the crisis, and not after it.

By the complicated constitutional practice of the United States, the president is responsible for the foreign policy of the country, but Congress alone has the power to declare war.

As a result of this complex arrangement, the hands of the president are always tied, as he is afraid of going too far in advance of the nation, and thereby being repudiated by Congress.

That was the fate of Woodrow Wilson. President Roosevelt, warned by that martyrdom, has played his cards more skilfully than did the war-time president. He has aroused public opinion in the United States to a fierce hatred of aggression and the deep-seated conviction that the security of the country demands its guaranteed while Europe faces war.

Senator Borah, I believe, was speaking for a small minority when he said there was no difference between the democracies and dictatorships of Europe. Thanks to Mr. Roosevelt, the average American has no more trouble in discovering the difference between democracy and dictators than he has in recognizing the distinction between a policeman and an outlaw.

RIMBEY

INTEREST SHOWN IN C.C.F. POLICY

A lively interest is being evinced in C.C.F. policies here at Rimbey, according to I. D. Taylor, president of the Rimbey group, who presided at an open-air meeting held recently when Miss Margaret Archibald of Lacombe and Robert Haskins of Clive were the guest speakers.

Miss Archibald, past president of the Junior U.F.A. and present secretary of the C.C.F. in Edmonton, spoke on the Youth Movement of Canada and told of her trip to the Dominion congress held last year in Toronto. She explained the purpose of the Youth Movement and urged that young people of the Rimbey district organize into a study group for the purpose of affiliation with the movement.

POSSIBLE CANDIDATE

Mr. Haskins, who won fame throughout Canada when he received the award for the best acting at the Drama Festival held in London, Ontario, last fall, spoke on C.C.F. policies. Mr. Haskins is among those mentioned for candidacy in the next federal election in the Wetaskiwin constituency.

Both speakers were well received and the meeting was a complete success in every way. Following a lively program of sports which included softball and swimming in the Blindman river, a bounteous basket lunch was enjoyed with George Grinde in charge of the tables.

LLOYDMINSTER

Patrons of the Lloydminster Exhibition on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week are assured of plenty of good ball as more than 10 teams have entered the baseball, ladies' and men's softball tournaments that will be held on the last two days. In order to accommodate the large entry list, four diamonds will be in use continuously all day long.

GOLDFIELDS

THREE INJURED AT GOLDFIELDS

Howard Carson, formerly of Regina, slashed his right leg with an axe while cutting survey line on the hydro project at Garry Lake, 21 miles west of Goldfields. One of the C.M. & S. planes made an ambulance flight to bring Carson to the company hospital. The injury was not serious, Dr. Brownridge, who dressed the wound, expressed the belief that Howard would be back to work in ten days.

Mrs. J. Paulhus suffered a severe cut below the right knee recently, while playing ball on the C. M. diamond. Six stitches were required to close the gash which was caused by falling on a sharp rock. Mrs. Paulhus lost considerable blood as an artery was cut and is quite weak as a result. At first it was thought a transfusion would be necessary. The injured woman is being attended at C. M. hospital by Dr. Brownridge.

Charlie Wilson, formerly of Ridgedale, narrowly escaped severe injury and possible death underground recently when he walked across a pile of loose muck. The muck slipped through a rock chute carrying Wilson with it and threw him out on a drift, where he was rescued by fellow workmen. He received a severe bruising, some minor cuts about the head and a bad fright. Wilson is employed at the Box mine by C. M. & S.

BAWLF

Bawlf's musical students, Miss Rose Nelson passed with honors the A.T.C.M. solo performance; Miss Lola Jensen, Miss Betty Aldridge and Miss Evelyn Nelson passed with honors the Grade IV examination tests of the Toronto Conservatory.

Raymond Bras, Wetaskiwin, spent the week-end with friends and attended the Luther League Young People's Social at the Selnes home this week-end.

Mrs. M. J. Connolly and son, Hugh Connolly, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McKay, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Brodie at Killam.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert "Bob" McKee of Orkney motored here for their holidays and are at present guests of Mrs. McKee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hoyland, in the Palmer-Earling district. Mr. McKee was former C.P.R. station agent here.

Married 63 Years

Shown above are Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Sanderman of Three Hills, who celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary Friday. Mr. Sanderman celebrated her 84th birthday in June, and Mr. Sanderman will be 91 years of age in September. The couple were married at Storm Lake, Iowa, and came to Alberta 30 years ago, homesteading about 16 miles east of Three Hills on the bank of the Red Deer river. They retired from the farm 15 years ago, making their home in Three Hills, where they have been active in the community life. They have seven children, one daughter, Mrs. L. Wollen of Three Hills, and six sons, Fred and Will on farms near Three Hills, Lee of Didsbury, Ted of Eagle Hill, Elmer and Carl of Storm Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Sanderman were at home to their many friends on Friday.

GHOST DETOUR —By OREN ARNOLD

CAST OF CHARACTERS

ROSELEE DALE and CHRISTINE PALMER, partners in a summer tourist venture at Goldcrest

DICK BANCROFT and FRANKLIN LARRAWAY, they also found an interest in Goldcrest

* * *

Yesterday: Franklin checks fingerprints and finds those in the Goldcrest bank are those of Carl Quail, bank robber, ex-convict. Franklin hurries back to Goldcrest to warn his co-workers. He does not tell the sheriff of his discovery.

CHAPTER X

THE wail would have been frightening if it had been heard on Broadway in daylight, but here in a 50-year-old ghost town by darkness it was positively terrifying.

"Ro-se-lee!" murmured Christine, tremulously, grasping her friend's arm.

Both girls sat tense for a long moment, listening, staring. The jail dungeon remained a black splotch on the hillside, but shortly after the wail came a new sort of noise. This time it was a thumping and a guttural melange of voices as of men laboring under stress.

Clank! Something heavy struck the jail's metal bars. Somebody cursed.

"Dicks in there!" Roselee breathed. "Dick . . . In there!"

Of one accord the girls got to their feet and started toward the place, half walking, half running, fearfully, anxious yet afraid.

Splat! Plop and thump and heave and groan—the sound now was distinctly that of men fighting. The girls stood as if spellbound, peering inside the jail doorway, not daring to enter but unable to leave. They could see nothing in the darkness but the noises made a vivid picture themselves. For one thing Dick Bancroft's words began to become intelligible in snatches.

"O . . . kay . . . brother . . . you . . . unh! . . . you . . . asked for it . . . now . . . now you're . . . gonna . . . GET it!"

* * *

The "get" was punctuated by what must have been a hard fist blow. Instantly came a quick slap-slap-slap as of footsteps, and a crash into a wall. Iron grillwork rattled. Dust ton was now floating even to the outer door of the jail.

It must have been Dick who had got in that hard blow. After the grillwork clanged, comparative quiet reigned for several seconds. The girls could hear sounds of breathing, almost a gasping in fact. But the commotion at least was ended.

"Ouuw, you're . . . breaking it!"

LACOMBE

500 ATTEND CAMP MEETING LACOMBE

With over 500 persons in attendance, the annual camp meeting and conference of western Canada Seventh-day Adventists is now in full swing at the Canadian Junior College here and will continue until Saturday. Religious services are held daily, with lectures by many outstanding Seventh-Day Adventists from all parts of the United States and Canada. Speakers here from Washington D.C., include M. W. Campbell, president of the North American Division Conference; S. A. Wellman, M. E. Cady, T. J. Michael and R. Rulding.

Representing the Canadian Union Conference are W. B. Ochs, president; H. W. Shepard, secretary-treasurer; A. Clark and D. N. Reeder, all of Oshawa, Ont. At the business session of the Western Canada Union Conference Adventists held during the week, C. W. Dalgleish, Calgary, was elected president, and H. Rulding, Saskatoon, secretary. It was announced that G. L. Salther, present secretary of the conference, will leave shortly for British Columbia.

This outcry was from a man obviously in intense pain. They did not recognize his voice.

"You lousy . . . I'll break it!" Dick exclaimed, then paused to breathe heavily again. "I'll break it . . . unless . . . you do as I . . . say. Where—"

"Let . . . let me up." The other combatant really was suffering, his voice revealed.

Dick waited several seconds the better to catch his breath before answering. He could talk more distinctly then. "Not—not until I find out who you are, what's your name?"

No answer was heard, and then there was a sudden slap, hard, and another outcry.

"You tried scaring the wrong guy, mister." Dick spoke again then. "You sounded like a ghost, but you don't feel like one. So you finally came for the money, eh!"

"No. What money?"

"What do you mean, 'what money'? I'm not dumb. Talk sense—or else!"

"For God's sake—unh-h-h-h—what do you want—to know?"

"Everything. Talk, man, or I'll break it! Talk!"

"My name . . . is . . . is . . . oh God, man, don't! My name is Packman, from the Western Metals and Minerals Corporation . . . I came—to scare the Dale girl!"

"You did what? You—are you L. J. Packman, M. and M. field manager?"

"Yes!"

"You better be able to prove it, mister, or it'll be too bad. Did you put that money there?"

"I don't know anything about any money." He was still breathing heavily, speaking brokenly, in great exhalations. "Our lawyer—tried to—tried to pay the Dale girl a profit—she wouldn't—she turned us down."

"Go on," commanded Dick.

"I came in, with some tourists, to look around. I heard her say—heard her say she would clean out the jail tonight. So I—I came to try to scare her away. Frighten her."

* * *

There was a long pause.

"I don't get it," said Dick then. "She wouldn't sell, Goldcrest — has valuable ore. Two assays were sent to us from Brisone and Son. Both said the ore from here was—valuable. One amounts to a rich strike. Now—let me go! Let me—"

"Well I'll be—I'll be . . ." Dick went on excitedly. "You're really Packman, eh? I'll know you in the light. It better be true. So there were two assay reports from Brisoe. How come two? Talk!"

"I don't—know! One was on re-worked ore. Old ore. One was a new specimen."

"Um. What'd the old ore show? How rich?"

"Six dollars—a—ton." He was still breathing in gasps.

"Six bucks! Sa-a-ay! What the devil did Brisoe send it to you for? You sold Goldcrest. Oh! I get it. You wanted to scare Roselee Dale into selling out again—So the company could cash in on the new discovery. Well listen, buddy, I sent in those samples. One of them, at least. I don't know about a second one but I knew about reworking that old ore. I know it can be reworked at even a dollar a ton profitably. I was going to investigate it thoroughly and see what kind of deal we might make with Western M. and M. but I'll be dogoned if I have anything at all to do with you now. I don't like your kind of baseball. Now if I take you out of here and you aren't Packman, your name's mud, and your neck's going to be. Understand? But if you are Packman, then I don't want anything else to do with you. I aim to kick you down this mountain slope, and if you ever come back here again I'll—"

"Well, move along now," Dick finished. "And no monkey business if you wanta live and do well."

There were sounds of bodies moving, and the two girls instinctively jumped back out of sight in the shadows beside a boulder. Dick and his adversary came outside. Dick grasping the other man's arm in a wrestler's hold.

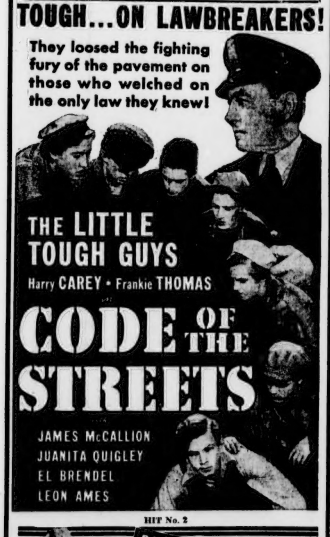

"You mentioned money," the other man said. "I could pay you."

"Skip that," Dick answered. "I wasn't hinting about any bribe, mister. Yeah, you're Packman, I can see. But I wouldn't have thought it of you. Now start running, and when you stop you'd better be out of sight, forever."

He gave the man a shove and Packman began running, indeed. The girls, hardly daring to breathe, saw Dick stand arms akimbo for a long minute watching the other man flee. Then Dick slapped his hands together as if cleansing them, turned and walked back into the ghost town jail.

Old-Timers' Day Is Happy Event As Alberta's Oldest Gather In Their Cabin Home

OLD TIMERS' DAY at the Edmonton Exhibition, Thursday, saw a good percentage of the 1,305 members of the association in attendance, despite overcast skies, which have persisted throughout the week. Tales of adventuring in the west of 30, 40 and 50 years ago when Edmonton was but a village, a little collection of roughly hewn log homes in the clearing that would some day reshape itself into fine avenues and parks of a large and growing western city, regaled the visitors who stopped for a cup of tea among their olden friends.

Hospitality, good cheer and cordiality which welcomed each newcomer to Edmonton those many years ago is still a characteristic of the welcome extended to guests who call at the cabin today. Hum of happy conversation inspired by old memories and good fellowship resounded through the log cabin on Thursday in the same measure it has all during the past week.

Conveners for the day were Mrs. George Ryan of St. Albert, Mrs. John Harrold of Bellerose, and Mrs. John Gibson of Namao.

PRESIDING AT TEA

The tea table was tastefully laid with snowy linen and centred with a bouquet of roses and carnations, intermingled with maiden hair fern. Gift of Mrs. W. G. # Return Of The Bustle Is Forecast In Summer Showings Of Fall Fashions

NEW YORK, July 21.—There is no doubt about it, New York and Paris designers are flirting with the idea of getting women back into bustles. Early summer collections hinted at bustles—sashes tying in huge bows, peplums and tiered effects. Schiparelli and Alix have definitely stressed the bustle for fall and winter wear. Above are a few of the ways bustles may appear on formal frocks later this year. The formal silk taffeta evening gown, left, is finished with a huge bustle bow. Next to it is a dawn gray organza gown, painted in a helter-skelter design in white with ruffles bordering the deep decolletage and fullness massed at the back to create a bustle effect. The street-length dinner dress is of black silk chiffon with panne front tunic which ties in a bow at the back, suggesting the coming trend to bustles. The floor-length dinner dress, right, is of white organza, exquisitely embroidered all over. The basque bodice ends in an important peplum beyond which flares a tunic that emphasizes the back fullness.

Merry-Go Round

Fun At the Fair

Thursday was one of the busiest days so far for members of the Women's Institute, and during the afternoon more than 100 guests called at the rest room in the Women's Building at the fair grounds to have tea. Assisting in serving tea to the guests were Mrs. A. H. Rogers, Mrs. W. T. Wood, Mrs. G. B. Brock, Mrs. H. Renton, Mrs. A. C. Rankin and Mrs. C. Skov. On Friday afternoon tea guests will be served by Mrs. W. C. Short, Mrs. T. Harris, Mrs. G. R. E. Brown, Mrs. W. T. Wood and Mrs. A. H. Rogers.

Spending their day at the exhibition in the keeping of Mrs. C. Engley and her assistants, found favor with fifteen children, who were left in the baby's check room at the fair up until late afternoon on Thursday. It was wet and sloppy outside and what fun they had romping and playing in the play room and on the lawn outside For the little tots—and there were several just three weeks old—nothing was more desirable than an afternoon's sleep and they had that cuddled up in the cosy cribs prepared for them.

• • •

It's an old English custom! Spectators at the races are so used to it they probably don't notice the dapplied grey horse that accompanies the favorite of the particular race in the parade in the paddock and again past the grandstand. Lost in the olden story of English and Irish racing, the roots of the custom are unknown today. But it is a custom, and like many an English custom remaining today, must be observed in the last syllable of recorded time.

One hundred years old is the lovely quilt on display among the handicraft exhibits on view in the Women's Building. On a white ground, the pattern, made up of tiny blocks of print, still colorful and charming, is formed by lines of these print pieces running from side to side forming diamond shapes against the white cloth. Shown by Mrs. R. K. Huff, it was made in 1839 in Indiana, as a wedding gift for Mrs. Huff's grandmother.

London Has Rainy Weather, Royal Garden Party Cancelled

LONDON, July 21.—A royal garden party was cancelled on Thursday when pouring rain turned Buckingham Palace lawns into a quagmire.

Palace authorities decided to cancel the event after several hundred of the 10,000 guests had arrived. It was believed to be the first time the most democratic of all palace functions had been called off.

CANADIANS DISAPPOINTED

Among the disappointed visitors were 11 prominent Canadians including Justice Oswald Crockett of the Canadian supreme court, Mrs. Crockett and J. Stanley McLean, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, who would have been presented to their Majesties by Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner.

The guests arrived they saw hurriedly-scrawled notices on the palace railings — "Garden Party Cancelled."

Dozens of Canadians were among the guests who formed a queue to sign the visitors' book, recording the fact that they had been to the palace. Other guests sat gloomily sipping tea while sheltering from the downpour. Scores of police were hurried to the palace to untangle lines of traffic as news spread the party was off.

The King and Queen attended a reception last night given by the Duke and Duchess of Kent to Prince Paul, regent of Yugoslavia, and Princess Olga.

The prince and princess were to have met a number of distinguished guests at the court in the afternoon, but this part of the programme was cancelled.

Mrs. Watt To Visit Here In October

LIVERPOOL, Eng., July 21.—Mrs. Alfred Watt, president of the Associated Country Women of the World sailed today for Canada aboard the liner Montclare. She will visit Edmonton during the first week of October, when a meeting of the Women's Institute will be arranged.

Mrs. Watt will visit Ottawa the first week in August, for private business with the government and will then go to Toronto where she will be guest of honor at the Canadian National Exhibition during the last week in August.

BORN IN CANADA

A native of Collingwood, Ont., Mrs. Watt founded the Women's Institutes of England-Wales in 1915 and later started branches of the movement in Canada. On May 30 she opened the triennial conference of the Associated Country Women of the World at London.

Mrs. Watt hopes to observe impressions of the Royal tour in the rural districts in Canada.

Royal Children Have Busy And Happy Time Keeping Play House

LONDON, July 21—Queen Elizabeth encourages independence in her two daughters by allowing them to use the little house presented to Princess Elizabeth by the people of Wales. But the Princesses have to do the housework themselves.

They have regular spring cleanings with Princess Margaret Rose polishing and washing and Princess Elizabeth ironing. When new window curtains or chairs are wanted the sisters have to buy the articles themselves out of their modest pocket-money.

This is revealed in "King's Nurse—Beggar's Nurse," by Sister Catherine Black, published by Hurst and Blackett. Known as Blackie to all the Royal family, Sister Black tended King George V. constantly from the time of his serious illness in 1928 until his death seven years later.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Stewart are spending a summer holiday at Sylvan Lake.

Bustles, Curves Make Current Beauty News

Bulletin Patterns

SLIM WAISTED SUMMER FROCK
Cool and Charming for 12 to 40

2907
SIZES 12-40

By ALICIA HART

There's news in makeup, news in figures.

This is the time for every beauty-minded woman to find out all she can about every angle of the newest beauty news, to consider each new development carefully before deciding wisely which she should adopt for herself, which she should be interested in, but just not use at all.

If bustles and bustle effects remain popular, a tiny waistline but a well-rounded hipline will be the order of the day. You'll do special exercises to make your waistline diminutive, but you'll cut down considerably on the rolling routine that make your hipline no more curved than a boy's.

To enhance further the illusion of delicacy through the midriff, you'll search for, and finally find, a short, little corset. It will mold your waistline, but allow your hips to curve outward below its bottom edge. You'll wear a brassiere which makes your bosom appear higher and larger.

Hair is going up again. We may have cut it off or let it grow back into a long bob during late spring and early summer months, but along comes the bustle silhouette and, presto, up goes hair to form chic variations of the old-time pompadour.

Shades of clear red outshine purples, dark wines, orchid and fuchsia tones of rouge and lipstick. You'll see dark red, medium red and light red. But you'll see red. And it's worth thinking about anyway.

Furthermore, suntan assumes less importance. Somehow, the pale, creamy complexion, delicately made up, seems more in keeping with bustle dresses than the darkly sunburned skin with a splash of scarlet across the mouth.

Here is a young minded dress for all ages . . . for the woman who is style conscious and likes pretty things. The slim, hand-spanned midriff is becoming and so smart this season especially when the bodice is softly draped. A heart shaped neckline is romantic and charming, the sleeves carry out the same curved line. What could be sweeter than this dress with your big brimmed straw hat made of a soft silk or rayon print. Cottons, the sheer family such as voile and dimity launder like a handkerchief and always look fresh and dainty. Contrasting bows at the neckline and a belt of matching ribbon adds a pleasing note to a useful dress.

Style No. 2907 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39-inch material and 2 yards of ribbon for bows and belt.

Send 15c for pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size you wish. Address order to The Edmonton Bulletin, Pattern Department, Edmonton, Alberta.

Ready for Summer! Styles for all occasions for old and young, slim and stout, vacationer and stay at home. They're all included in our new full-color Summer Fashion Book. Order your copy today! The price is just 15 cents.

CHINESE CHECKERS IS NOT A CHINESE GAME

Chinese checkers is about as Chinese as a Mulligan stew. No such game has ever been known in China. The game now played is said to have been devised by a resident of the State of Iowa who is reported to have failed to copyright his game and to have lost all the profits from its sales. There are also other claims to its invention, but none of them from China!

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same on the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful pressure or stool or nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from Morrish Drug Stores or any druggist a package of Hemrold and use as directed. This formula which is used internally quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore tender spots. Hemrold is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Dress Familiar Meats With Italian Artistry

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Give familiar meats a new dress and they will step right out in front. Veal, for example, likes a touch of Italian artistry.

VEAL CUTLET ITALIAN STYLE
(Serves 4 to 6)

Two pounds veal cutlets, 1½ tablespoons butter, 1½ tablespoons olive oil, 1 lemon, salt and pepper.

Have veal cutlets cut very thin. Pound well. Heat butter and olive oil in heavy frying pan. Add sage leaves and cook for 5 minutes. Then put in cutlets and cook until tender and nicely browned on both sides. Salt and pepper. Add lemon juice just before serving.

ROAST LAMB WITH FRUIT SAUCE
(Serves 6 to 8)

One shoulder of lamb, 8 strips bacon, ¼ cup currant jelly, 1 small can sliced pineapple, ½ pint grape juice, butter, pepper, salt, flour.

Sprinkle lamb with salt and pepper. Rub lightly with butter. Dredge with flour. Roast in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until well browned and tender, about 1½ hour. Baste every 15 minutes with grape juice.

Place roast on hot platter and garnish with halved sections of pineapple with curls of crisp hot bacon. Add currant jelly to pan gravy, thicken and serve.

What To Do

A friend of mine is coming to visit me and while she is here I am planning to invite a group of young people to go on a hiking party. We will take our supper and cook it out of doors. To complete my plans I need an easy game that we can play after supper—not the pencil and paper type. Will you suggest one, please? Thank you. RUTH.

Answer—A game is a grand way to wind up a hiking party. Try this one — World Traveler. The World Traveler in this game asks funny questions on travel, whether to go by caravan, air, rail, water, motor and so on; what to take, and what to do and see when he gets there. He pays for each good answer with a pebble. The player holding the most pebbles after three rounds of questions becomes the next World Traveler. After all have been world travelers, make the one in the group who holds the least number of pebbles pay a forfeit.

O. R. Barton

Children are real sobersides. Their small faces, so smooth and frank, are "dead pans."

Two children meet each other on the street. They are old friends and haven't seen each other for a long time, perhaps. But what do they do? Hug each other, hop about and laugh? Not in the least. Maybe they just stare or at best say, "Hello" and pass on.

Give a child a new toy. He may show intense excitement, but he won't smile. The happier he is, the grave he looks. One would think he could be a little more dramatic about it, but he isn't.

Perhaps it was to arouse some real effort at more cheerful reaction, that a certain teacher in a very progressive school tried to coax some smiles on her pupils' faces.

Betty came home looking as glum as a rainy day. "What has happened now?" asked mother.

"Humph. The teacher was trying to instill in us the spirit of gaiety," growled Betty.

This, I think, tells the story. Children want to wear masks. They are afraid to show their true feelings.

"But children grow out of this seriousness," you say. "Older people smile when they meet, express real best we can do is to put ourselves in the place of the child and imagine how we would feel in the same circumstances.

Dorothy Dix Says:

A prominent public utility executive is suing his second wife for a divorce because he claims that she decoyed him away from his first wife by practicing her feminine wiles and charms upon him. He asserts that with Wife No 1 he had spent 26 years of happily married life, but no sooner had he married Wife No. 2 than he discovered that she had no affection for him and had married him for his pocketbook, not his heart. The only that, in the home close-up she lost her allure, for he charges she wore her hair in nets, used metal curlers, cellophane mittens and cosmetics and wasn't even as good looking as his clean, old soap-and-water wife.

The account of this divorce case will be greeted by loud and ribald laughter. The general public has scant sympathy with the aging man who lets a hard-boiled, little, gold-digging flapper take him away from the faithful wife who has loved him and slaved for him and helped him build his fortune. And so when they see him writhing at the bottom of the pit which his folly has dug for him they look upon his misery with contemptuous mirth rather than with pity.

Yet if you have tears to shed, you might well weep them out on the shoulder of the middle-aged man who swaps off his old wife for a new one young enough to be his daughter. For he is of all men the most unhappy. It does not take him long to discover that he has been gypped by a mere girl baby who played upon his vanity until she landed him, and who has no interest in him except in what he can give her, and that his belief that he was still just a boy was an illusion with which he befooled himself.

A man who divorced his middle-aged wife to marry his pretty young secretary writes me: 'Whenever I see a woman with her husband and wife going about in happy comradeship or sitting by their own fireside talking about their children and what a fine record John is making at school and how the quests and popular Mary is, or just sitting in a silence that needs no speech to make them feel how close and dear they are to each other, I am filled with chagrin at the folly I committed and so envious of their happiness that I turn my face away in agony.

"For it might have been mine if I had not thrown it away. I was married to as fine a wife as any man ever had. She loved me. She worked and scrimped and saved to help me get a start. She made me a comfortable home. She gave me fine children. We were a devoted and loving couple until, like so many other men in their forties, I went haywire.

"Domesticity had become sort of flat. I began to realize that I was getting old. And then I happened on the Eve who is always around to lead every man into temptation who is worth the price. Mine stuck up for a verdict of divorce. I divorced my wife, separated myself from my children and married her. We hadn't been married a week before I woke up from my trance and found out that the woman I loved was my wife, and that what I wanted was my home and children.

"The new wife and I had not one thing in common not even affection, and so she goes her way and I go mine. She is satisfied when she has plenty of money to spend, but I have nothing to satisfy my soul, and there is no more miserable man on earth than I am."

That is the end of many another story of the man who swaps off his old wife for a pretty new one, as you can see for yourself when you observe a tired and sleepy husband sitting alone at a table at a night club, good for nothing but to pay the bills, while his young wife dances with some boy of her own age.

According To Culbertson

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The following is the most interesting hand I have ever observed. Usually the kibitzers, after glancing at several hands, feel a pitying superiority to the declarer who sees but two hands. This time, however, the kibitzer saw enough to make him gasp in envy.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

"The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 spade | Pass | 2 clubs | Pass |
| 3 spades | Pass | 5 spades | Pass |
| 6 spades | Pass | Pass | Double |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

"West opened the club ace and continued the suit, declarer winning with the king. A low spade was led to dummy's king and, on the spade return, East split his honors, forcing declarer's queen. When West showed out it was obvious that only a coup could trap East's trump trick. Hence, declarer now laid down the diamond ace, then led a low heart toward dummy. Realizing that three entries would be required in dummy for the plan he had in mind, declarer boldly put in the nine spot and, to his satisfaction, it held. Now declarer had to try a play whose success depended on sheer nerve. Declarer nonchalantly led the club queen from dummy! East went into a huddle and glanced at declarer suspiciously, but after much thought decided that declarer was trying to get him to ruff this trick so that he, declarer, could over-ruff. East felt that he might escape the impending coup if he were to refuse to ruff. He discarded e heart and declarer calmly followed suit with the club six! The queen of clubs was ruffed with the four of trumps, then the heart jack was overtaken with the queen, and the last diamond was ruffed with the spade eight. Declarer now was down to the ace-nine of spades and the king of hearts. West's hand did not matter. North still had the heart ace and the two clubs. East, the J-7 of spades and the eight of hearts. Declarer led the heart king to the ace and sent a club through East. Obviously, the J-7 was trapped under the A-9, and declarer's contract was home.

"What we would all like to know is: What would an expert in East's position have done on the third club lead? C. D., Illinois."

No one can deny that the hand was beautifully played by the declarer, but to answer the specific question, I rush to the defense of experts with the opinion that a real expert in the East position would have defeated the contract by ruffing the third round of clubs.

After South had cashed the ace of diamonds and entered dummy with the nine of hearts to ruff a diamond, but one which would have been nullified had West miraculously put up the heart ten). East should have had a clear picture of South's holding. South had already been shown to hold six spades, at least two clubs, and the diamond ace. The fact that the nine of hearts held proved that South's hearts, however many, were solid. When the eight club was led from dummy, East should have reasoned as follows: If he failed to ruff, and have a losing diamond or a fourth heart, he (declarer) also would discard. Next, declarer would ruff a diamond, then enter dummy with a heart, and ruff dummy's last diamond, thereby shortening the South hand to the A-9 of trumps, against East's J-7. Finally, the heart king would be overtaken with the ace and East would still have to follow suit. Now, with the play in dummy, any card led would have to be ruffed by East, and South would overruff, thereby completing the coup.

Thus, since careful analysis would have proved to East that there was nothing to be gained by refusing to ruff the club queen, pure logic would have dictated the ruff of that card as the only possible chance to defeat the contract.

WHEAT TAKES ANOTHER DROP AT LIVERPOOL

LIVERPOOL, July 21—Still another fractional drop in wheat prices today brought the quotation down to the equivalent of 47¾ cents a bushel—a record low.

Wheat for July delivery opened at 3 shillings, 4⅞ pence per 100 pounds, then see-sawed through the morning while reports from North America told of a large early crop and Argentina hurried to dispose of its surplus before the effects of the harvests in Canada and the United States could be felt.

LONDON, July 21—The Financial Times today called on the government to ease the world wheat situation by augmenting war reserves of the cereal and to strengthen its hand internationally by judiciously placed purchases.

The newspaper said in an editorial that if wheat prices do not recover to a more remunerative level, increasing financial stringency would result in producing countries with a resultant loss of markets for imported goods.

TAKE ADVANTAGE

The editorial said Britain could take advantage of the urgent need of the wheat growing countries to unload supplies to break the economic stranglehold the totalitarian states are seeking to impose on central European and South American countries.

The newspaper admitted, however, that certain problems arise. For instance, if the government decided to buy from Rumania and Argentine it would be forced to consider the rival claims of Canada and Australia.

ECONOMIC ADVANTAGES

Nevertheless, the paper added, "It is to be inferred that empire countries are not blind to the political and economic advantages which would follow from an action designed both to relieve pressure on wheat prices and check economic pentetration by the totalitarian powers."

The Manchester Guardian urged the government to buy wheat while the price is at its lowest in years and added that considerable doubt existed as to whether the food administration had bought enough food reserves to relieve the pressure on shipping in the early days of conflict.

QUANTITY SECRET

The paper said that while the quantity stored was naturally a secret, estimates cast doubts whether the amount was more than two weeks above the normal commercial supply while Germany was said to have orders sufficient to last six months.

The editorial drew attention to the fact the population of Great Britain had grown 5,000,000 since 1914, while shipping tonnage had decreased and that the losses of the Great War left us within reach of starvation.

5-Year-Old Boy Starts Trip Over Roof Of World

SINING, Kansu Province, China, July 21.—A grave-mannered five-year-old boy whom China officially favors for recognition as the reincarnation of the late Dalai Lama, has started a 1,000-mile journey over the roof of the world to Lhasa, Tibet.

There a bamboo slip drawn from a gold vase will decide whether he or either of two other candidates will become the 14th political pontiff of Tibet, succeeding the Dalai Lama who died in December, 1933. The candidates, born about the time he died, have given what are considered indications of the divine spirit.

Broomhall

The British government announcement of substantial additions to the reserve supplies, together with hedging by Argentine shippers served to emphasize urther the already bearish situation at Liverpool and prices yesterday dropped to new seasonal lows. The threat of additional government-owned supplies hanging over the market caused heavy liquidation with very little confidence remaining in existing price levels and the market displayed little rallying power. There have been occasions during hte past year when government-owned supplies were sold to mills, and although replacements were later made, the possibility of such sales will probably restrain merchants from making further commitments.

TEACHERS' ACT TO BE TESTED BEFORE COURT

Association Seeks Confirmation Of Disciplinary Powers

Validity of the Alberta Teachers' Profession Act will be tested in a supreme court action started Friday morning by the Alberta Teachers' Association. The statement of claim was filed by Carl W. Clement of the law firm of Clement and Whittaker.

The association, of which all members of the teaching profession in the province are members, is seeking a court declaration that the act covering the professional conduct of their profession is intra-vires of the provincial legislature in authorizing the investigation of acts committed by members which amount to a crime for the purpose of disciplinary measures.

It also seeks a court declaration that the by-laws clause of the association relating to discipline is intra-vires of the Teachers' Profession Act in authorizing the investigation of acts committed by members of the association which amount to a crime for the purpose of discipline.

The association also seeks a declaration that its executive council is vested with powers through the Teachers' Profession Act to investigate alleged reports of unprofessional conduct and also that the executive has powers to fine or commit for contempt a witness for refusal to answer questions at any enquiry instituted by the executive under powers conferred by the act.

The test case arises out of refusal of a witness to testify at an inquiry into the conduct of Henry Bailey Myers, teacher for the Gleichen School District No. 106. This enquiry was held on July 3 and had to be set over when a material witness, on advice of his counsel, refused to submit himself to the investigating committee for questioning.

Defendants to the action are Mr. Myers and Samuel Dafoe, guardian of N. A. Riddell, student at the school, the latter also being designated as a defendant.

THE QUESTION

"What do you think should be done to promote the spirit of national unity today?"

THE ANSWERS

JIM MACLEAN, University student: The basic problem facing Canada today is to reconcile the economic needs of the east and west. As long as the high tariff policy continues to impose hardships on the west, there will be constant tension in Canada.

• • •

ELMER ROPER, publisher: What is creating this talk about the lack of national unity is a feeling on the part of the Canadian people that a group of powerful interests is controlling the destiny of the country. It is high time we realized it is not a case of the east vs. the west, but of a few monopoly groups opposed to the best interests of the east and west. And I am amused to hear Liberal and Conservative politicians bemoaning the so-called lack of national unity. They have been in control for years. Why did they allow national unity to be weakened? Do they want us now to thank them for their past mistakes?

• • •

JOHN BLUE, Chamber of Commerce: We will never have national unity of a real sort in this country until we produce some big men in this country's public life. The men in public affairs today are, in general, the weakest and least equipped for their task of any I have known in the past quarter-century.

SUN DRIES OUT FAIR GROUNDS; STAFF LABORS

Brilliant sunshine of the last few hours has helped the work of the Edmonton Exhibition Association staff in thoroughly drying out the fair grounds and patrons Friday can rest assured that the daintiest shoeshine will be just as brilliant as when it was paid for in the shoeshine parlor.

Throughout the early hours of the morning squads of men were working in the exhibition grounds remedying the havoc caused by the recent heavy rains, and before the gates opened Friday it was reported to the management that every pot-hole and low spot had been filled in and dry footing assured for patrons unless further rain fell.

Fair Manager P. W. Abbott, K.C., stated that "the grounds would be as dry as a concrete sidewalk Friday."

Back in Edmonton for the first time since their marriage ten years ago, "Slim Jim" and "Big Bertha," headliners on the midway program, well remember the occasion of their marriage, performed here by Donald Mackie, registrar of vital statistics, July 18, 1929, when two other fat ladies from the midway acted as bridesmaids. Jim weighs 80 pounds and stands six foot two; Bertha's present weight is 619 pounds.

They will work at laboratories in various city dairies, at the university and at the offices of the city board of health.

Business conditions were reported to be "in good shape" by two senior officials of the Safeway Stores Company in Canada and the United States, who were here Friday, guests at the Macdonald. E. H. Warren, Oakland, Calif., president of Safeway Stores Incorporated in the United States, and L. W. Raley, Vancouver, president of the Canadian Co. ## Through The Mill

The law is the law, but fortunately, it can often be interpreted and administered in many ways. Sometimes it is the instrument with which society collects its pound of flesh from hardened criminals. But at other times it can be kindly, setting those who have gone astray gently but firmly on the right track.

• • •

In police court Friday a young man pleaded guilty to a charge of having stolen a bundle of clothes while attending an auction sale. It was his first offense and the cadi thought that he deserved a chance. So he imposed a suspended sentence of 12 months. Which means that the young man does not go to jail, but has a second chance to "go straight."

• • •

But even when he gets out of the right side of the bed Magistrate Miller can be tough when he thinks the case deserves tough treatment. And when a man who was found guilty of having been peddling liquor out at the exhibition grounds appeared for sentence, the cadi smacked down on him with "$200 and costs or three months."

EDITOR MEETS SISTER AFTER LONG ABSENCE

For the first time in 52 years Scotty Allan, associate editor of the Pony Express Courier, Placerville, Calif., met his sister Mrs. Alex Ross, 9407 94 street, Thursday when he arrived in Edmonton in the course of a two-week holiday.

The 66-year-old Edmontonian and her brother last saw each other at their home in Ordon, Scotland, when Scotty, a 19-year-old lad, left that country for America.

It was a happy meeting at the Ross home Thursday, although Mrs. Ross was so overcome with joy at seeing her brother again that she could not restrain tears of thankfulness.

Since Scotty left his native home he has traveled far and wide. He was one of the men who pioneered the state of Dakota in 1887. He spent 30 years in the Yukon and Alaska where he blazed virgin trails and panned gold.

During the Great War he took 440 huskies to France for use in the Alps in moving supplies and ammunition to soldiers of allied forces. After the war he was elected to the Alaskan legislature. Later he helped Admiral Byrd organize an expedition to the polar regions. He is author of the book, "Gold, Men and Dogs."

They're Seeing Canada

By Bulletin Staff Cameraman

Shown above are six of the eight Baltimore youths who are now travelling across Canada on a North American tour and who stopped briefly in Edmonton Wednesday. From left to right they are: John Eareckson, leader; Vincent Eareckson, Howard Price (in front), and Martin Pearce (behind), Vernon Sulzer and Roy Scriven. They will cover more than 13,000 miles this summer at a cost of about $25 each, in the truck they are pictured beside. Most impressive thing about the entire trip, which has already taken them as far south as Alcalpa, Mexico, is the flatness of the Canadian prairies, they say.

Canadian Corps Plans Affairs During Summer

While the Canadian Corps Association is taking its annual summer vacation and few activities are carried there are three highly important events in the offing, in which all association members are interested.

On Sunday next, the members, with parents, children and medals, will join with members of the 49th Battalion Association in the annual church parade and divine service of the 49th.

The Canadian Corps Association annual picnic will be held on civic holiday, August 7, and preparations are well under way for making this an outstanding event.

The next meetings of the association will be resumed on Tuesday, September 5, when a general meeting will be held at the Masonic Temple.

Membership in the association is now about 1,800 and steadily increasing.

Looking Them Over

Dan Dopes It

RIGHT away we should get busy and erect a fitting monument to little Dan Zegarchuk, the unemployed Winnipeg painter, who yesterday solved the problem of picking race winners—a pesky problem that has been bothering some of the world's livelier brains for several thousand years.

Dan has been quietly doing research into this problem for the last seven years, but it was right here on the Edmonton track yesterday that he climaxed these years of painstaking study with a smashing experiment that produced exactly $2,824.80 worth of proof . . . a result which leaves his fellow turfologists pop-eyed, envious and flabbergasted.

Like most scientists, Little Dan has no objection to making his discoveries public for the benefit of his fellow men. While his fellow research workers have been [illegible] past performance statistics, weights, riders, track conditions and the vitamin [illegible] of the hay and oats in various sections of the west, Zegarchuk went right to the crux of the matter and steadily refused to be decoyed off into aimless side issues. He realized at once that if there were any law underlying the cock-eyed [illegible] that racing produces—why [illegible] must be an equally cock-eyed law.

Daniel then went to work to methodically eliminate all cock-eyed [illegible] system of trial and error. Throughout the present season he has been following the ponies around the west while he tested out the hypothesis that you can win the daily double by pairing Number One horse in the first race with the Number Eight horse in the third.

Yesterday Mr. Zegarchuk proved to a cock-eyed Edmonton that where X represents the horse on number one post position in the first race and Y represents the post position of the horse on the outside in the third race, then X plus Y equals $2,824.80. That fact is now established beyond the slightest doubt for Daniel has two thousand, eight hundred and twenty-four iron men in his pocket as proof.

Of course Daniel's experiment does not prove that the X plus Y [illegible] into a morass of mere technicalities.

"You take them technicalities and I'll take the $2,824.80," Daniel declared tersely as he closed his books on the daily double problem and plunged into a new set of experiments which he hopes will yield a formula to determine the winner of an ordinary race that is free of the astral influences that [illegible] the daily double."

Unemployed Winnipegger Collects Grand Total Of $2,929.30

By BILL LEWIS

LIFE took on new meaning for a little unemployed painter at the Edmonton Exhibition race track Thursday afternoon when Bell S flashed past the wire a winner in the third race to complete the Daily Double from Lan's Alice in the first for a huge payoff of $1,412.40.

It so happened that Dan Zegarchuk, jobless painter-decorator who follows the races when work is slack around his Winnipeg home, was the holder of the only two tickets sold on the winning combination, which meant that he had cleaned out the entire Daily Double pool of $2,824.80. On top of that, Dan had had enough confidence in Bell S to put a $2.00 bet on her nose, which was worth $104.50, thus bringing his total winnings up to the highly-acceptable sum of $2,929.30.

For some time after the Double price had been posted on the board, mutuel officials waited expectantly for the lucky winner or winners to appear to cash the tickets. Finally, Zegarchuk arrived at the mutuel office accompanied by Constable James McMurray, of the city police force. He produced his tickets and then jokingly explained his "system" to Percy W. Abbott, K.C., managing director of the Exhibition, Herb King, mutuel manager, and others while arrangements were made for his payoff.

HERE'S THE SYSTEM

Zegarchuk told how he had long followed a "number" system in making his Double bets, taking No. 1 in the first race and No. 8 horse in the third. From the beginning of the meeting here, he had stuck rigidly to the system and was at last rewarded when Lan's Alice (No. 1) and Bell S. (No. 8) came through for him.

Asked what he intended to do with the day's profits, he said that he had a wife and three children at home and that there would be plenty of uses for the money.

But Zegarchuk was not the only happy patron at the race track Thursday. Long-shot punters really had a field day, as only a single favorite romped home in front on the whole program, this being Lee Somers, who scored a win for the popular Edmonton owner, Lee Williams, in the second race. Lee Somers, who ran a beautiful race to win the two-year-old event, paid $5.55 straight but this was the only nose price under double figures.

SATURNINO COPS FEATURE

Feature race of the card, the W. R. West Memorial Handicap at about seven furlongs was captured by Saturnino, dark brown gelding owned by W. W. Bloom, of Quinn, South Dakota. Always close to the pace, Saturnino held off the Calgary-owned Chief Richie in a drive through the stretch to win by three-quarters of a length.

Unrivalled and Baby Joe ran one-two in the seventh race to pay their Quinella backers $19.65.

Thursday proved a very unpleasant day for Jockey Jack Fumano, who was fined $25 for a rough ride on Bell S. and then had another $25 fine and a five-day suspension slapped on him by the stewards for roughriding on Saturnino.

A pair of claims were entered during the day and one owner, Frank H[illegible], of Calgary, was victim of both of them. He had the good Levi Cooke taken from him for $500 by John Gauthier, former jockey, who now trains the Fort Garry Stable, and lost Baby Joe for a similar amount to H. Fandry.

Crawford Makes Tennis Semi-Final

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 21 — Jack Crawford, Australian veteran, dipped into his storehouse of experience when his legs grew weary and came out with a few tennis tricks that enabled him to gain the semi-finals of the Longwood Bowl tournament. He beat Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., 7-8, 6-1, 3-6, 8-6.

Alberta Golfers Have Good Round

MONTREAL, July 21 — Ted Adams of Chillicothe, Mo., who will defend his Canadian amateur golf championship at nearby Mount Bruno next week, stepped from his car after a 400-mile drive and covered the par-70 Mount Bruno layout in 76.

Henry Martel of Edmonton, Ken Lawson of Victoria and Jim Hogan of Jasper, Alta., arrived for the tournament. Martel carded a 72 in practice. Hogan was three over par.

Radials Now Heavy Favorites To Rout Civics From Playdowns

VANCOUVER RADIALS captured a three-goal lead in their inter-provincial soccer series against Edmonton Civics. The smooth passing coast squad drubbed the Civics by a 5-2 score at Clarke Stadium last night and are now heavy favorites to advance to the western Canada final at Winnipeg.

Second and final game of the series will be played at Clarke Stadium on Saturday evening. Civics must pick up three goals to stay in the running and must score at least four more than the coast team to win.

In the opening stages of the game Radials put on the pressure and McKay got in good position for a good shot which Noe saved. Curly Johnson then got Edmonton's best chance but was beaten out by a sturdy Radial back. Graham finished the play by lifting the ball over the bar.

STARTED SCORING

Hap Smith headed the ball to H. Greer on another dangerous Vancouver rush and the nimble coast forward tallied nicely. Civics had hard luck just before half time as Jack Johnson centered the ball for Radials and Davidson, Civic back, headed the ball into his own net.

Nine minutes after the interval, three Civic players got mixed up with the ball. Out of the mixup McKay, Radial forward, scored number three for the coast team.

Civics got their first chance as Ted Lewis, best player on the field, drilled a hard shot. A Radial halfback handled the ball and Bob Graham scored on the penalty shot.

Davidson, Civic back, handled the ball and Hap Smith completely fooled the Civic goalie as Radials chalked up their fourth goal.

Bob Haxby cut down the Radials' lead as he picked up Graham's cross for Civics' second tally but Vancouver took over control of the play from there on with Liptrott scoring Vancouver's final goal.

A notable visitor at the game was Johnny Dewar, remembered as one of the finest referees in the west. Mrs. Dewar was an interested spectator, too.

Weather Defied By Fair Crowds Visiting Grounds

That old maxim, the weatherman, again tried to turn the damper on the exhibition Thursday but, despite the 63 inches of rain he spilled over the city, crowds continued to flock to the fair. He is slated to turn the faucets again Friday, the forecast reading "not much change in temperature, scattered showers."

An additional 08 inches of moisture, falling between midnight and 8 a.m. Friday brought the rain gauge indicator up to the .69 mark for a 24-hour period ending at 9 a.m.

The mercury touched the 66 above line at 1.30 Thursday for the day's high and sank overnight to a low of 53 above. The fluid stood at 62 around 9 a.m. Friday.

Weather in the year north Friday morning was mostly clear and calm following heavy rains of the past few days.

Butterfly, Insect Exhibit Is Valued $10,000 At Fair

Coming from all corners of the earth, and valued at $10,000, a display of butterflies and tropical insects is a feature attraction of the 1939 summer fair.

J. F. May, park warden of Riding Mountain national park, Manitoba, is showing more than 20,000 specimens, which form part of his collection, numbering 60,000.

About 10,000 each of insects were lent by the exhibitors when the truck carrying them overturned near Crowsnest Sunday last. Three trays of South American locusts were lost in the accident.

The exhibit contains the largest beetle in the world and the largest known butterfly, together with six deadly black widow spiders and several tarantulas, better known as banana spiders.

Czar Resident Named President Horse Breeders

Annual meeting of the Alberta Belgian Breeders' Association, held at the Arena office this week, resulted in election of J. A. Strange of Czar as president. A. Van Alstyne, of Ohaton, was elected vice-president, and Mr. Justice W. R. Howson, of the Alberta supreme court, was elected secretary.

Judge Howson, a recent addition to Belgian breeders, reported purchase of two outstanding fillies from a United States breeder, and said he hoped to add further to his herd in the near future.

A resolution was passed asking that greater representation be given Belgian breeders at the Toronto Royal Winter Fair, and H. Sallet, Calgary, was appointed to make a selection of Belgian entries for this show.

Rumania Will Exchange Wheat For Armaments

BUCHAREST, July 21. — An agreement was signed with Rumania will barter 50,000 carloads of wheat to Germany and Italy for armaments was reported today by informed sources.

These sources said the deal called for delivery in September of 30,000 carloads to Germany and 20,000 to Italy with the price fixed at 46,000 lei (about $322) a carload and with payment to be made in military supplies.

Thus, diplomats said, the Rome-Berlin axis paradoxically will assist Rumania's feverish armament, which is spurred by fears that the axis might help Hungary and Bulgaria recover territories which they lost to Rumania in the Great War.

(Rumania has received British pledges of military aid to maintain her independence and has signed a trade accord with Great Britain.)

Conservative Wins In Hythe Riding

FOLKESTONE England, July 21 — R. A. Butler, Conservative, was elected to the House of Commons Thursday in Hythe constituency to fill the seat left vacant by the death of Sir Philip Sassoon last June 3.

Mr. Brabner defeated the Liberal candidate, F. G. Darvall, obtaining 12,016 votes to 9,577. A third candidate, John Philby, representing the People's party," obtained 336 votes.

Hythe Conservatives in the 1933 general election gave Sir Philip Sassoon 19,559 votes, while his Liberal opponent, R. L. Ellis, obtained 8,868.

Bumper Crop

THAMESVILLE, Ont., July 21 — William Bloom believes he should go into large scale farming he was successful this year. On a 10-by-acre plot, he raised 444 bushels of wheat.

HEPBURN NOT TO MAKE ANY VOTE SPEECHES

TORONTO, July 21. — Premier Hepburn of Ontario will not take the platform "one way or the other" in the forthcoming Dominion election, he said Thursday. "Everyone knows where I stand and what I think, but I am not going to make any election speeches at all," he added.

Mr. Hepburn reiterated his position that Liberal members of the Ontario legislature may support Federal Liberal candidates if they choose.

"I have stated that Ontario Liberal legislature members are perfectly free to take what action they please. That goes without qualification. If provincial members decided to support Federal Liberal candidates, I don't intend to 'take it out of them' afterward. I don't expect, however, that Ontario cabinet ministers will campaign for Federal Liberal candidates outside their own ridings. None of the senior members of my cabinet, I imagine, will not take any part in the election on the side of the Dominion government."

Mr. Hepburn's statement Thursday apparently ended speculation that he might carry his antagonism toward Prime Minister Mackenzie King to the point of opposing the Federal government openly in the next Dominion campaign.

London Times Has Royal Visit Photos Taken In Edmonton

Two pictures taken in Edmonton during the visit of their Majesties King George and Queen Elizabeth appear in a special pictorial section of The London Times issued in connection with the Royal Visit to Canada, copies of which have arrived in the city.

One shows a large section of the crowd on Portage avenue, and the other shows Their Majesties talking to a veteran in the South Side military hospital. Mention is made of Sir Philip Sassoon last June 3.

Mr. Brabner defeated the Liberal candidate, F. G. Darvall, obtaining 12,016 votes to 9,577. A third candidate, John Philby, representing the "People's party," obtained 336 votes.

Hythe Conservatives in the 1933 general election gave Sir Philip Sassoon 19,559 votes, while his Liberal opponent, R. L. Ellis, obtained 8,868.

GRANDPA, 86, PEDALS WAY 1,028 MILES

CHICAGO, July 21—That 86-year-old Grandpa William C. Bailey of Underhill, Vt., who just can't stay off a bicycle—since he learned to ride one seven years ago—was in town again today. He arrived at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Ralph Griswold, yesterday after pedalling his way here from his home town, a distance of 1,028 miles.

South Alberta Farmers Build More Granaries

LETHBRIDGE, July 21.—As the end of the 1938 grain year approaches, farmers throughout the south are reported to be constructing more granaries on their property than for many years.

After the end of the month the growers will receive 70 cents per bushel No. 1 Northern basis Fort William for the first 5,000 bushels, but must accept the market price for remaining sales.

Many larger farmers are constructing granaries, planning to fill the first 5,000 bushels and hold the rest for higher markets.

Six Killed In Flight

BERNE, Switzerland, July 21—Three passengers and three crew members were killed Thursday when a special plane flying between Vienna and Zurich crashed near Constance.

Colorful Pageant Marks Sun Dances Held by Indian Tribes Rocky Mountain House District

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, July 21—District Indians held two sun dances this year, one 30 miles northeast of town in wild bush country. Non-treaty Crees and Chipewyas staged this one, with Chief Strawberry as Medicine Man. Days of rains and long stretches of muskeg road kept all whites away, but weather cleared a little for the dance of the treaty Stoneys, held 20 miles south of town, and a few whites were able to get out.

The Indians explained the reason for the two dances, one the first three days of the week, the other the last three days, by saying that the two Medicine Men had so much to be thankful for that only two dances would express their gratitude to the Great Spirit.

The second dance was held in a small bowl of cleared land, ringed by forest on every side, about half a mile off the highway south of town. The tribes set up their tents and teepees around the edge of the bowl, each tribe with a little section to itself and each one flying its own banner. Here and there they flew the Union Jack. 'Horses were tethered all over the field and among the trees.

MUST BE PERFECT

The sun dance lodge, 40 feet in diameter, was built in the middle of the bowl. A poplar tree was selected for the king pole in the centre, which must be perfectly straight, of a certain size and without blemish. Branches were trimmed off and the pole set firmly in the ground and cleafy poplar branches laid against the stakes, to make a thick green wall.

Once the building is done, the dancers take their places behind the altars, and do not eat or drink for three days and nights of the dance. Drummers sit on the ground between the two altars and when the drums start, the dancers rise and, singing and chanting, keep time to the pagan music. The drums cease, and they sink down for a brief rest. The drums beat again and they rise. The Medicine Man seems to rise every time the drums beat, but the squaws apparently work in relays.

This year, Josheau Saulteau, full blooded Stoney Indian is really a reservation Indian, but prefers to live off the reserve, was Medicine Man for the third time. Two years ago, he danced alone; last year, there were four braves with him, and this year no one. One small eight-year old boy, White Calf, danced and fasted with the others as a promise to God to grow up to be a good boy.

Fifteen women danced. Saulteau's wife and daughter, among them, all dressed in the gayest colors. The Medicine Man had on a beautiful headdress of eagle feathers, held in place by a three-inch band of solid beadwork. One of the dancers had whistles made from eagle bones, and decorated with feathers.

BROUGHT GIFTS

The afternoon of the third day, the local Indians took their gifts into the lodge and laid them at the foot of the king pole. Gifts of saddles, harness, clothes, blankets, beadwork, several horses. They did not bring the horses into the lodge, but a willow switch indicated that a horse waited without.

As he put his gift down, each brave told of what he had to be thankful for—health, plenty of good food, rich winter trap lines. Then the old chiefs along the side of the lodge rose, and in small eight-year old boy. White Calf, danced and fasted with the others as a promise to God to grow up to be a good boy.

Gold, Diamond Rush Is On In British Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, July 21—News of rich gold and diamond discoveries in British Guiana's Nazaroni district sent a horde of fortune-seekers upriver today to the rugged hinterland. Prospectors returning from the district to register claims displayed pokes of gold dust and precious stones.

Diamonds aggregating 729 carats were registered at the department during the day. One gem has a 12½-carat stone which sold for $1,200.

Douglas Corrigan Still Wrong Way

PENSACOLA, Fla., July 21. — Honeymooning Douglas Corrigan, who flew the wrong way and landed in Ireland last summer, is still at it. When he registered at a hotel here last night he forgot to list his bride, the former Elizabeth Marvin of Galveston, Texas. A clerk put him right, got "Mr. and Mrs." on the register.
